U.S. Moves To Assist Laos

Leader Inspects Troops

Right-Wing Police Guarding Vientiane

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — American-backed right-wing Gen. Phoumi Nosavan's police took over key installations in Vientiane Wednesday. It was not immediately clear whether the move was a precaution against Communist coup or preparations for a rightist one.

The police moved quietly into position to guard radio transmitters, the government ministry of information and other offices in an indication the ruling Neutralist faction of Premier Sounna Phouma no longer fully controls the situation.

No new fighting was reported on the Plain of Jars but the crisis in Laos appeared no easier. Communist Pathet Lao leader Prince Souphanouvong has promised to withdraw his troops from the areas he seized from the Neutralists but has not acted yet.

He still refuses to let the International Control Commission visit Communist-controlled territories to police the shaky peace. The United States has demanded this as a prime requisite of restoring calm to Laos.

Communist North Viet Nam announced it would withdraw 300 "technicians" from territory controlled by the Communist Pathet Lao—one of the few admissions by Hanoi of its involvement in Laos.

The Communists claimed the "technicians" were building houses at the Pathet Lao headquarters of Khang Khay on the Plain of Jars. U. S. sources said they were military cadres sent here to keep the Pathet Lao in a state of combat readiness.

Souvanna gave the job of evacuating the Vietnamese to the International Control Commission but once again Souphanouvong blocked a visit to the plain by the Indian-Polish-Canadian group.

Gen. Kong Le, commander of the Laotion Neutralist forces, charged that the Vietnamese had participated in the recent fighting between Neutralist and Communist forces which touched off the current crisis.

100 Viet Cong Red Guerrillas Are Wiped Out

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A government air strike Wednesday wiped out 100 Communist Viet Cong guerrillas who had killed women and children in a series of attacks on fortified villages, a U.S. military spokesman reported.

The bodies were counted from the air following the bombing of an unusually heavy concentration of guerrillas in the heart of the Camau Peninsula southwest of Saigon.

Heavy fighting has been raging in the area since Sunday night when an estimated 700 guerrillas attacked an outpost at the town of Bien Nhi defended by South Vietnamese regulars.

The village counted 35 dead next day—21 soldiers, 6 women and 8 children. Another 29 government soldiers were believed killed in fighting in the surrounding countryside.

The guerrillas attacked four more villages or outposts Monday and Tuesday. Three more children were killed in one of the battles.

By this morning the Communist attacks had left a total of 132 dead or missing, including the women and children.

Fire Sweeps Dinner Theater

EAST McKEESPORT, Pa. (UPI)—An early-morning fire that shot flames 75 feet skyward destroyed the recently opened Vogue Terrace Dinner Theater Wednesday.

One man was killed in the blaze and management officials placed the loss at $650,000.

It was the fifth multiple-alarm fire to hit the immediate district in 48 hours and the second involving a popular entertainment establishment. Early last Monday a building housing the Beau Brummel Club in downtown Pittsburgh was destroyed with damage set at $200,000.

Publishers Hit Secrecy In Government

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Newspapers Publishers Association criticized secrecy in government Wednesday and urged the Kennedy administration to renounce the "use of the lie" as a political weapon in the cold war.

Irwin Maier, publisher of the Milwaukee Journal and Sentinel who is president of the ANPA, warned the new frontier that such a policy could "corrode" the trust of American citizens in their government.

Maier's warning came in the annual address of the president to the 1,400 delegates attending the 77th convention of the publishers association.

"Two years ago President Kennedy rightly pointed out the existence of a 'dilemma' because of the present need for 'far greater public information' along with the need for 'far greater official secrecy,'" Maier said.

"I make no judgment as to the gravity of the dilemma at that time or at this time. There will always be that dilemma, or tension.

"But the dilemma will not be resolved by administration officials who assume the government's 'right to lie' to its own people," Maier said.

"Aside from the morality of the matter, if a government, for whatever motives, begins to deceive its citizens, it has begun to corrode their trust. And once that corrosion begins, the viability of self - government is gravely in doubt."

The ANPA appeal came in the wake of a statement attributed to Arthur Sylvester, Pentagon press chief, defending the government's "right to lie" as a legitimate cold war weapon.

Loyalty Pledged To King Hussein

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Tribal chiefs and Cabinet ministers gathered before the palace Wednesday and pledged allegiance to King Hussein in this time of trouble.

Nearly 3,000 government dignitaries and bedouins joined in a show of loyalty. Meanwhile Amman, scene of several antimonarchy demonstrations Tuesday, was quiet.

Gl's Charged With Taking "Corrupt" Roles In Movie

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Frank J. Becker, R-N.Y., demanded Pentagon action Wednesday against any U.S. military men who played parts in an Icelandic movie said to give a "drunken, girl-corrupting image" of American servicemen.

Becker protested to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara after the show business newspaper Variety published a review of the movie, entitled "Gogo."

The Variety article said two high-ranking officers from the U.S. base at Keflavik, Iceland, played the roles of drunkards.

"Almost unbelievable is the participation in this feature of actual U.S. military personnel stationed at the Keflavik base but pictured as souses and girl corruptors," the Variety review said.

Becker wrote McNamara that if U.S. military men were permitted to participate in such a film "it is about time we fold up our tents and go home."

"I am sure you must be shocked, as I am, and every other person who has seen this article," Becker said. "It is unbelievable."

He asked McNamara for an immediate response "outlining steps you are taking in order that this matter be cleared up and proper action taken against those who have participated."

The Defense Department's public affairs office said it is looking into the Variety report and Becker's complaint.

The Variety article said the Americans who had roles in "Gogo" were John Teasy and Lawrence W. Schneph. It said Teasy "is believed a U.S. actor who is in charge of the U.S. Army television network on the Keflavik base."

Harriman Sent To Moscow On Crisis In East

Kennedy Tells News Conference Of Personal Letter To Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy announced Wednesday that he is sending W. Averell Harriman to Moscow for consultations on the crisis in Laos. He said Harriman is taking a personal letter from him to Premier Khrushchev.

Harriman is undersecretary of state for political affairs. He is in Europe now, where he has been conferring with the French and British prime ministers. He will talk with the Soviet foreign minister in Moscow, Kennedy said.

In connection with the situation in Laos, Kennedy was asked at a news conference about the respective menaces Russia and Red China represent to the United States.

He said he thought it would be a mistake to assess the threats to the United States.

Threat From Chinese

He noted, in connection with Laos, that Russia had signed the Geneva accord. He said: "We also are conscious of the threat to Southeast Asia" from the Red Chinese. He said he hoped the Soviet premier would make a serious attempt to meet his commitments in Southeast Asia as Kennedy said the United States is prepared to do.

Kennedy also announced he will hold conferences with the new Canadian prime minister, Lester Pearson, May 10-11 at Hyannis Port, Mass.

Kennedy said the meetings will concern "many important questions" of common interest to the neighboring countries.

Laos Is Test

When the question period began, Kennedy was asked if he would interpret a refusal by the Russians to help mediate in Laos as a shift toward a "hard line" in dealings with the West.

The President agreed that Laos was a "test whether countries with serious differences could reach an accord," but he said the United states would have a clearer idea of the Russian position after Harriman returned from Moscow.

Asked if there is any evidence the Soviet Union is not in control on the ground in Laos, Kennedy said time will tell. He said there was direct control because of the Soviet airlift in previous years. He said whether such control exists now is a question that should find an answer in the next few weeks.

Not U. S. Fault

He said the struggle is not between the Phoumi forces and the neutralists, but between the Pathet Lao (Communists) and the neutralists, which he said shows that the trouble there is not the responsibility of the United States. clear to the world.

Kennedy said he had no plans for a meeting with Khrushchev anytime soon.

"It doesn't seem to me that it would be useful unless we were in agreement on a (nuclear) test ban and we're not now," he added.

Test Ban Talks

In response to questions, he said the United States has made proposals for intensifying negotiations on banning nuclear testing.

But Kennedy said he is not "overly sanguine" about the prospects of agreement. He said many questions are still unresolved — not only the number of inspections, but the area, the composition of inspection teams and similar matters.

G O P Attitude

Asked about Republican criticism of his administration's policy on Cuba, and in particular the criticisms from former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Kennedy said Fidel Castro was "permitted to assume control in the 1950s and perhaps it would have been easier to take care of him then than now." He added that those in control at the time did not make that judgment.

He said the Organization of American States has almost isolated Cuba in this hemisphere and made clear that communism is not welcome here. He said we made it very clear we would not permit a Hungary in Cuba, and made clear we would not allow Cuban troops to move into other hemisphere countries.

Cuban Exiles

He said it seems we have done pretty much what can be done, except to take steps which bring violence. He said the critics have not grasped that nettle yet. As to "unleashing" the exiles, which cannot do the job, he said, we deserve a good deal more precision in our prescription for Cuba.

Asked about possible approval of a Cuban exile government, Kennedy said "we have supported" the Cuban Revolutionary Council to give the exiles a voice. But he said that to agree to support a government in exile was an entirely different question.

The historic experience of governments in exile "has not been especially felicitous," he commented.

He said he felt there should be more cohesion among the exiles. He said a government in exile would be imprudent today and, "I don't think would help the matter."

Soviets On Island

Kennedy said it appears there has been some reduction in the number of Soviet forces in Cuba, but no reduction in the amount of equipment on the island.

But, replying to a question about a statement by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., that there has been no net reduction, with thousands replacing the thousands who left, Kennedy said he did not consider the dispute very important —whether there were 17,000 or fewer. It is clear, he indicated, that substantial numbers still are there.

He said evidence is that about 4,000 left in March and some may have left in April and there are apparently somewhat fewer on the islands now than at the beginning of the year.

Variety Of Subjects

On other matters:

TRIP — Kennedy said his trip to Europe this summer would be limited to Italy, Germany and Ireland. He said he would be glad to go to France if he felt there were some matters in which a personal exchange with President Charles de Gaulle would be beneficial.

But the President said he didn't feel this was the time for a face-to-face meeting with De Gaulle, adding that matters now could be dealt with better at the diplomatic level.

CIVIL RIGHTS — asked what steps the government could take to safeguard Negro rights in the South, Kennedy said the Justice Department and other agencies had been working effectively to give protection, through lawsuits, through the courts and in other ways.

But Kennedy said he didn't think the President had the power for any blanket withdrawal of federal funds from Mississippi as proposed by the Civil Rights Commission.

SPACE AGREEMENTS — Kennedy said there was no reason why executive agreements with the Soviet Union for space research should be sent to the Senate for ratification.

"They are not treaties," he said, and contain on substantive matter that requires the approval of the Senate.

TAXES — Kennedy said he does not at all agree with suggestions that it might be well to delay the effective date of a tax cut because of better economic indications.

As a matter of fact, he said, one reason why the economy has been doing as well as it has is the prospect of a tax cut and even so the economy is not mov-

British Put Blame For Laos On Russia

LONDON (AP) — Britain accused the Soviet Union on Wednesday of blocking efforts to prevent a new eruption of full-scale fighting in Laos and rapped the Russians for trying to blame the United States.

Foreign Secretary Lord Home said the Geneva agreement that ended the Laotian civil war last July hung in balance.

The 14-nation accords intended to take Laos out of the cold war were hailed at that time as a triumph for diplomacy in East-West relations. Red China was among the signers.

"The next few days should show whether the (Geneva) settlement is to be allowed to survive or not," Home told the House of Lords. He said the military drive of pro-Communist forces greatly jeopardized the peace pact.

Lord Home, in criticizing the Soviet Union, spoke of Britain's role of special responsibility for keeping the peace in Laos.

The Geneva accord was reached by a 14-nation conference last July 23. Home and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, as conference cochairmen, were given special responsibility for maintaining the peace.

Home criticized Gromyko for trying to place the blame for renewed fighting on the United States.

The foreign secretary stressed that a breakup of the Geneva agreement would strike a blow at hopes for thawing the cold war.

Scandinavians Form New U.N. 'Fire Brigade'

STAVANGER, Norway (UPI)—Denmark, Norway, and Sweden Wednesday agreed to form a 3,000-man "fire brigade" for emergency use by the United Nations.

The defense ministers of the three Nordic nations aid at the conclusion of their annual meeting that the plan will be sent to the three national parliaments for ratification.

The three nations have contributed troops and specialists to U. N. peace-keeping missions in recent years and all are represented in the U.N. forces now in the Congo and the Gaza Strip between Egypt and Israel.

Informed sources said Sweden plans to contribute about 2,000 infantrymen to the brigade. Norway and Denmark will assign about 1,000 specialists, engineering troops, and emergency field hospital and helicopter crews.

Youth Admits Million Dollar Jewel Thefts

NEW YORK (AP) — A dapper youth admitted Wednesday that he was the baffling celluloid burglar, who starred in a $1-million series of recent jewel thefts. Included was last February's sensational rifling of theatrical producer Irene Selznimk's Hotel Pierre apartment.

Alfred K. Madsen, 21, a welder with a knack as a lock picker, netted only $100,000 from fences to whom he peddled his loot, and spent that on high living as fast as he laid hands on it. He wound up broke.

Madsen pleaded guilty before State Supreme Court Justice Michell D. Schweitzer and was held for sentencing June 13.

An indictment handed up earlier in the day specifically charged Madsen with four jewel thefts from midtown hotels, including the $400,000 robbery of Mrs. Selznick one Feb. 7 which netted him only $7,000.

As detectives suspected from the outset, Madsen used celluloid "do not disturb" hotel signs to slip the locks of suites he invaded. He worked alone, prowling the quiet, carpeted hallways of smart Manhattan hotels, concentrating on corner suites which are more expensive and likelier to contain big loot.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said few of the stolen gems have been recovered. It was feared they have long since been broken up and disposed of through underworld channels.

Old Bolshevik Gets Gold Star

MOSCOW (AP)—Marshal Semyon Budenny, Bolshevik cavalry hero of the civil war that followed the 1917 revolution, was awarded the Soviet gold star Wednesday in connection with his 80th birthday.

The gold star means he is a "Hero of the Soviet Union," an award he got once before, in 1958. He frequently attends Kremlin social functions, his moustache bristling and his chest loaded with medals.

Royal Pair Leaves Westminster Abbey For Honeymoon In Quiet Scottish Glen

By JOHN GALE

LONDON (AP)—Princess Alexandra of Kent married her handsome Scottish swain in the lofty magnificence of Westminster Abbey Wednesday and then flew with him to a honeymoon in Scottish glens.

Crowds cheered, bells pealed, bagpipes skirled and Queen Elizabeth II looked vaguely glum at this second wedding within three years of a British princess to a commoner.

The first was her sister Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones the photographer since made Lord Snowdon; now there were her 26-year-old first cousin and financier Angus Ogilvy, 34, united before the Abbey's high altar.

For Londoners it was a day of pageantry. They came out in thousands to give Alex — as they call her — the sendoff of a lifetime. Police reported 103 casualties, most of them spectators who fainted in the street.

The slim, green-eyed princess—12th in line to the British throne—was a dreamy figure in a gown of magnolia-tinted lace with a 20-foot train.

A diamond tiara circled her silky, golden brown hair. From it flowed the veil her mother, Princess Marine, wore 29 years ago when she married Prince George, the first Duke of Kent, who was killed in a World War II plane crash.

The princess was given away by her brother Edward, 27, the current Duke of Kent, who is a British army officer.

The couple was united on the spot in the lovely old Abbey—majestic with soaring stonework, polished columns and great gold tracery — where Britons have crowned their kings and queens for 900 years.

Television cameras captured for audiences across Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland and Sweden the spectacle that more than 2,000 guests, including more than 70 members of European royal houses, witnessed first-hand.

The bride and bridegroom voiced their marriage vows clearly under questioning by the gold-robed archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Arthur Michael Ramsey.

Air, Ground Units Sent To Thailand

Movement Part Of Eight-Nation Exercise In Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 3,000 U.S. Army troops organized into two battle groups will begin arriving in Thailand next month to participate in military maneuvers, the Defense Department announced Wednesday.

The two U.S. units are the First Battle Group, Fifth Infantry of the 25th Division in Hawaii and the Second Airborne Battle Group 53rd Infantry, based in Okinawa. They will be accompanied by supporting aircraft and supply units.

"U.S. military personnel will begin arriving in Thailand during the month of May," the Defense Department said.

The Pentagon also said one squadron of supersonic jet fighters will be sent into Thailand by the Air Force. It probably will number 18 planes.

Meanwhile, more than 30 ships of the eight SEATO nations now are assembling in the South China Sea for a naval exercise which will start April 29 and concentrate on anti-submarine warfare and convoy work. The naval exercise, called Sea Serpent, will run until May 9.

The U.S. troop movement is part of an eight-nation exercise which the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization has called the largest of its type ever conducted by SEATO. The exercise had been scheduled for some time and is one of a series conducted in recent years by SEATO.

But SEATO officials apparently hoped that the maneuvers would have a deterrent effect on Communists now stirring trouble in neutral Laos on Thailand's eastern border.

The Defense Department announcement was the third this month concerning the military exercise which will involve more more than 24,000 troops of the eight SEATO countries.

In last year's Laotian crisis, the U.S. Army already had a battle group in Thailand when fighting erupted in Laos. Reinforcing Army and Marine units were sent in, along with Air Force fighter plane oufits. In all, there were 5,000 U.S. fighting men in Thailand.

There are at present more than 3,000 American military men in Thailand. They include Air Force personnel with six F-100 jet aircraft, about 400 in the U.S. military assistance group, and 2,500 Army men who are maintaining equipment left behind last year and who are carrying out improvements in transportation, communications, and other civilian-military fields in Thailand.

The ground maneuvers will be followed by naval exercises in the South China Sea between the Philippines and the Indochinese Peninsula.

Nuclear Attack Sub Launched

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (UPI) — The nuclear attack submarine Jack, sister ship of the ill-fated Thresher, was launched Wednesday, the second of three ceremonies in an unusually busy week in the nation's submarine program.

A $3 bottle of champagne was cracked against the hull of the $45 million vessel in traditional ceremonies at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard — two weeks to the day after the Thresher went down in the Atlantic with 129 men aboard.

On Saturday at Groton, Conn., the Polaris firing submarine Daniel Webster will be launched as part of the Navy's one-a-month submarine building program. Only Tuesday at Groton, the Polaris submarine Lafayette was commissioned.

Pershing Missile Firing Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The U.S. Army successfully fired a Pershing missile 200 miles across the Atlantic Ocean Wednesday despite temporary interference by a Russian airliner flying through a warning area during the countdown.

The missile thundered from its launching pad at 3:30 p.m., EST, in the last of a special series of four "tactical" shots.

The launching was delayed at one point for about 20 minutes while a Soviet aircraft passed through an offshore warning area during a flight from Nova Scotia to Cuba.

White Baltimore Mailman Slain During Integration Pilgrimage

Wm. L. Moore Shot To Death On Lonely Road

ATTALLA, Ala. (AP)—State and county authorities launched a massive search Wednesday for the slayer of a white Baltimore mailman who was making an integration pilgrimage to Mississippi.

William L. Moore, 35, was shot to death at close range about 8 p.m. Tuesday as he walked near this northeast Alabama town.

Moore was wearing pro-integration signs.

"We have nothing concrete," said Chief Deputy Sheriff Tony Reynolds. "Everything is on or near the slaying scene. It's a process now of elimination—talking to witnesses and running down leads."

Gov. George Wallace, a rigid segregationist, called the slaying a dastardly act and offered a $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the killer.

Moore started his trek Monday in Chattanooga, Tenn., after a bus trip from Washington, D.C.

Letter To AP

In a letter to The Associated Press, postmarked Tuesday morning in Trenton, Ga., Moore said that his reception in the South "was very courteous." He said the only incident occurred when a Negro objected to the word "black" on his integration sign. He said the Negro ripped it off, saying the word should be "colored."

The sign read on one side, "Eat at Joe's, both black and white." The other side read: "Equal rights for all—Mississippi or bust."

The Baltimore Congress of Racial Equality chapter called upon Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to order a federal investigation.

FBI May Assist

In Washington, the Justice Department said there was no indication any violation of federal law was involved, but added that Kennedy has asked the FBI to give whatever assistance local authorities request.

A passing motorist found Moore's body on U.S. 11 near Attalla in a rural area. The nearest house was 100 yards away.

Before he started on his mission protesting segregation in the South, Moore distributed copies of a letter he left Friday at the White House for President Kennedy and another he planned to deliver to Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi.

"I am not making this walk to demonstrate either federal rights or state rights, but individual rights," the letter to the President said.

Peaceful Protest

"Peaceful protest is not altogether extinguished down there," he said.

"I hope that I will not have to eat those words."

Moore, who was born in Binghamton, N.Y., and moved to Mississippi at the age of 3, wrote Barnett:

"I have always had a warm place in my heart for Mississippi, the land of my childhood and my ancestors.

"I dislike the reputation this state has acquired as being the most backward and most bigoted in the land. Those who truly love Mississippi must work to change this image."

Mrs. Moore has three children by a previous marriage.

Mrs. Moore said her husband was a mental patient at the Binghamton State Hospital from January 1953 to March 1955. She said he was a Marine Corps veteran and fought on Guam in World War II.

END OF MARCH — William L. Moore, of Baltimore, shot to death while marching to Mississippi to protest segregation, was on his way to plea for passage of an equal public accommodations bill in the Maryland General Assembly in Annapolis on March 20 when this picture was taken. He wore the same sign when found dead on a Georgia road near Attalla, Ala. (AP Photofax)

Victim Described As Mild Man Of Good Will

BALTIMORE (AP) — "Feeling quite secure now. But if anything ever happened, I wonder if anybody would ever know. The road is a lonely place."

The post card signed "Bill" was mailed Monday in Trenton, Ga. His body was found Tuesday night on a lonely Georgia road.

The card mailed by William L. Moore, 35, was sent to the Rev. Irving R. Murray, chairman the Baltimore Branch of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Moore had talked with the union last week before he left on his solitary walk across Alabama — to Mississippi he hoped — on a mission protesting racial segregation.

Liked His Courage

"We congratulated him for his courage and told him to keep in touch with us if he needed help," the Rev. Mr. Murray said. "We gave him a list of lawyers he should contact in the event he was arrested during his journey.

"What he was doing was not exactly my technique, but it is exactly the sort of thing Isaiah did in Old Testament times. He walked across Jerusalem carrying sandwich signs proclaiming his message."

The minister was one of several Baltimoreans who recalled with sadness Wednesday their last words with Moore.

Herbert Gardner, a fellow post office worker, said:

Hope To Awaken World

"I shook his hand and said good luck and gave him $2 and said I hoped God would bless him.

"He told me he hoped to awaken the whole world, not only the south, to its racial obligations. He said if the day would ever come when the Negro race gained authority that the Negroes would be kinder to the whites than the whites had been to the Negroes."

John White, president of the local Alliance of Postal Employes, told how Moore applied for membership in the largely Negro organization.

"He seemed to be a mild-mannered man who was firm in his convictions," said White. "But it was difficult for me to understand how he could feel so strongly about this to risk his life.

"For a white man to have had the courage to want to join a predominantly Negro union showed an unusual amount of stamina."

Memorial Pilgrimage

A Negro member of the Maryland House of Delegates, Clarence M. Mitchell III, said youth members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will walk from Baltimore to Washington Saturday in a memorial pilgrimage.

"Using Bill's method of communication, I shall walk with them," Mitchell said.

In a telegram to President Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, Mitchell requested that the marchers be granted a conference "on this very crucial and pressing problem."

The telegram said: "We respectfully urge you to intervene immediately to find his (Moore's) murderer and to extend the protection of the federal government to all Americans in Alabama and Mississippi who are being shot at, jailed, and harrassed . . ."

City Manager Back To Work At Newburgh

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (UPI)—City Manager Joseph McD. Mitchell returned to his desk following acquittal in a $20,000 bribery-conspiracy trial and promptly signed a voucher for about $5,000 in back pay.

"I'm among the truly needy," he said. "It's one of the great ironies of my life."

Mitchell, who had suspended himself from his $14,150 a year position for 4½ months, drew nationwide attention in 1961 with a 13-point welfare code designed to eliminate those he called chiselers and loafers from the city's welfare rolls.

The voucher still has to be okayed by the city's comptroller and corporation counsel and sent to Albany for final approval, Mitchell said. He said his trial in New York City had cost him a "minimum of $30,000."

Mitchell also drafted a letter to the city council saying he had lifted his suspension and resumed his duties.

This raised some question as to whether he could lift the suspension. Corporation counsel Lawrence Herbst, with whom Mitchell conferred, said he was not sure of the legal aspects and would have to check with the state office of local government.

Mayor William D. Ryan, who fought Mitchell during the welfare code controversy, said he did not believe Mitchell should be reinstated. But four members apparently were pledged to support Mitchell at the next council meeting, May 13.

Mitchell and Lawrence J. Demasi Jr., of Hillsdale, N.J., had been indicted in Manhattan on charges of demanding $20,000 from brothers Stephen and Joseph Wharaftig of Monticello who wanted a Newburgh zoning variance so they could build a housing project. Both were found innocent by the trial jury Tuesday, but Demasi was rearrested on grand larceny charges for his confession that he had taken the money from the brothers.

JFK Plans 7 Or 8 Days In Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's trip to Europe in late June will cover a period of 7 or 8 days, the White House said Wednesday.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger declined to pinpoint dates but said the trip will be made during the last two weeks in June.

Mack Truck Stockholders Get Report On Earnings

NEW YORK (AP) — Mack Trucks Inc. stockholders were told Wednesday that January-March earnings will about match year-ago results, and would have been considerably better but for two non-recurring factors.

C. Rhoades MacBride, president and board chairman, said one of the two drags on profits was delayed amortization of new plant start up expenses, amounting to about $1 million or 14 cents a share.

The other, he said, was Canadian dollar devaluation which cost the company about 22 cents a share in 1962, the amount to be charged off over the four quarters of 1963.

In the January-March period last year, Mack cleared $1,544,425, or 50 cents a share, on sales of $61,989,820. He said comparable 1963 figures were unavailable because of a computer breakdown.

During the year, the company opened up a one million square foot new power train plant at Hagerstown, Md., and transferred there operations previously carried on at Plainfield, N.J.

Substantial economies are being achieved and are expected from this development, MacBride said.

Asked by a stockholder if a major expansion was planned at Allentown, Pa., where Mack maintains its main assembly plant, MacBride said expansions there and at Hagerstown were under continuous study.

Stockholders approved a new retirement income plan for employes at the Hagerstown plant, and amendments to a similar plan covering employees at Allentown and three other locations.

FBI Arrests Chicago Queen Of Call Girls

Crime Syndicate Crackdown Raids Are Continuing

CHICAGO (UPI)—Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Agents Wednesday arrested Pat Atkins, reputed "queen of the Chicago call girls," and began a roundup of other alleged call girls in the Chicago area.

Ten young women were subpoenaed simultaneously with Miss Atkins' arrest. They were brought before a federal grand jury which had been standing by to hear evidence in the case.

The arrest was described as another step in the government's crackdown on crime syndicate vice and gambling in Chicago.

Miss Atkins, 36, was charged with transporting the proceeds of vice across state lines—to Hawaii.

M. W. Johnson, special agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, indicated the arrest was another step in the Justice Department organized crime unit's campaign against syndicate crime in the Chicago area. He said Wednesday's arrest climaxed a five month investigation.

Earlier this month, Internal Revenue Service agents, acting for the organized crime unit, conducted major gambling raids in Chicago's south suburbs and seized records of syndicate gaming operations. Previously, federal agents conducted similar raids on Chicago policy wheel operations.

Miss Atkins was arrested at her plush North Side apartment on a charge of violating a two-year-old federal law prohibiting use of interstate facilities by individuals engaged in enterprises involving prostitution. Conviction would mean up to five years imprisonment and up to $10,000 fine.

She has a record of 12 arrests by Chicago police on vice charges, the FBI said.

The complaint alleged that Miss Atkins caused proceeds from prostitution to be sent across state lines in July, 1962. Johnson said that while Miss Atkins was vacationing in Honolulu, Hawaii, money was sent to her by "another person in Chicago."

At her arraignment before U.S. Commissioner C. S. Bently Pike Miss Atkins waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to U.S. District Court. She was released under $3,000 bond.

The prudent action, he said, is to go ahead with a program that would put $10 billion in tax reductions into the economy, leading, he said, to some $30 billion worth of stimulation.

MOON PROGRAM — On the wisdom of the man-to-the-moon program and the money it takes, he said, "We looked at it of course — when we proposed the budget this year, and have looked at it again." But he said he has seen nothing to change his mind as to the desirability of the program.

DETROIT — Ward's Automotive Reports has boosted its forecast for second quarter auto production to 2.08 million units from 2.015 million because of booming spring sales.

Three Intelligence Agents Among U.S. Prisoners Freed In Exchange With Cuba

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Central Intelligence agents were among the 21 American prisoners whom Fidel Castro swapped for four of his followers held in this country, congressional sources said Wednesday.

They said the Cuban prime minister was aware that some of the men he was turning loose worked for the CIA. But it was not clear whether he was certain of their identities.

The CIA declined to comment on the report, as did other government officials.

But qualified informants indicated that the secret agents were three men who figured in a sensational 1960 case in which the Cubans accused them of espionage. The trio, all of whom were on the list of prisoners returned this week, are Daniel L. Carswell of Eastchester, N.Y., Eustace H. Danbrunt of Baltimore and Edmund K. Taransky of New York City.

The names used by the Castro government in 1960, however, had a spelling variation except for Carswell. The other two were listed as Eustace Dan Brunet and Edmundo K. Taranske.

Scripps-Howard newspapers, in reporting earlier that CIA men were among the prisoners exchanged, said Castro didn't necessarily know who they were. But the Newhouse newspapers' Advance News Service said he was aware that one of them was Carswell, supposedly an engineer.

The trio was accused by Cuba in 1960 of espionage directed against the Red Chinese New China News Agency office. The Cuban government said they were wiretapping experts and had tapped wires of the agency.

In connection with the case, Cuban authorities held briefly, then expelled, a U.S. Embassy employe, Marjorie A. Lennox, secretary to the commercial attache. The Cubans said the three worked in her apartment and in another apartment in the building where she lived.

Carswell, Danbrunt and Taransky all left Miami on Tuesday without telling the Red Cross, which was helping the returnees, where they were going.

Members of Congress familiar with the situation said New York Attorney James B. Donovan, who arranged the swap with Castro, was acting under U.S. government orders in making the arrangement he did. In all, 27 men were released by Havana, but only 21 returned to this country.

The Scripps-Howard dispatch said the United States agreed to the unusual exchange primarily to free the captured agents held in Castro dungeons with American adventurers and soldiers of fortune

Erhard Warns Against Inflation

BONN, Germany (AP) — Vice Chancellor Ludwig Erhard took the floor in Parliament Wednesday for the first time since he was nominated to succeed Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He warned against creeping inflation in West Germany.

Erhard has guided the West German economy for over 13 years and is generally credited with its present prosperity.

He said spending, especially by the government, is increasing faster than production. He urged that supply and demand be brought into greater harmony.

Wrong Button

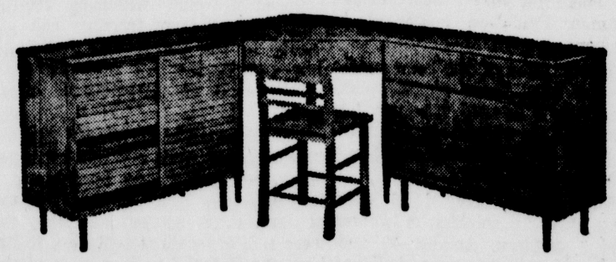

BONN, Germany (AP) — Firefighters answering a call by the U.S. Embassy Tuesday were informed it was a false alarm.

Said an Embassy spokesman: "Somebody pushed the wrong button."

Pentagon Plans Five Satellites On One Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Pentagon communications official outlined this week a plan to put five or more satellites into orbit with a single rocket to build a system that would flash messages to command posts around the world.

Rear Adm. Jack S. Dorsey said the Defense Communications Agency hopes to be ready in about two years to demonstrate the feasibility of its communications satellite plan. Preliminary contracts may be let within the next two weeks, he said.

Dorsey and Lt. Gen. Alfred D. Starbird testified before the House Military Operations subcommittee. Starbird is director of the communications agency, Dorsey deputy director in charge of the communications satellite project.

Starbird said the armed services need an instant communications system that would survive a nuclear attack. In addition, he said, the system must be flexible so that it can be expanded swiftly to provide "reliable communications to out-of-the-way areas where tension develops."

Communications satellites offer the greatest promise of meeting those needs, Starbird said.

The program calls for a system of lightweight satellites launched into random polar orbits, 5,000 to 10,000 miles up. He said five or more satellites could be packed into the nose cone of an Atlas-Agena missile and injected into orbit at varying speeds so they would spread out.

Coupled with air-transportable ground stations, Dorsey said, the system "will provide secure, survivable and flexible communications to the worldwide military command and control systems."

Dorsey said the system would be reliable and difficult for an enemy to knock out. With a 30-satellite system, he said, failure of six satellites would still leave a 98 per cent reliability rate.

Multiple orbiting techniques need further development, Dorsey said but should not delay creation of the system.

"A payload of five or more satellites per booster is an exceptionally attractive feature of the medium-altitude system approach, since each launch represents an investment of about $10 million," Dorsey said.

Business Asked To Hold Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges has requested that businesses using steel resist the temptation to raise prices of their products any more than would be justified by increases in the cost of steel.

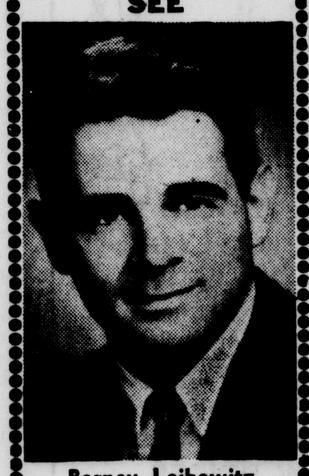

Hodges, at a news conference, also urged that steel users avoid building up inventories to excessively high levels.

The secretary estimated that more than half of current steel buying is a hedge against the possibility of a steel strike later this year. Knowing what he knows about wage patterns and conditions in the industry, he said, he personally would exercise restraint.

If inventories are excessive, Hodges commented, a letdown at the end of 1963 could have discouraging effects on the economy.

As it is now, Hodges added, economic indicators are pointing upward. Although there are no guarantees for a continued upsurge, he said, signs are more optimistic than a few months ago, and the country may enter 1964 in good shape.

New Infirmary Dedicated By Gov. Tawes

400 Beds Added To Institution For Mental Care

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes dedicated Wednesday a new infirmary designed especially for bedridden patients and others requiring continuous nursing attention at Spring Grove State Hospital.

It will permit moving 400 patients from other sections of the mental hospital. The older sections will be renovated and made available for patients physically able to participate in the varied programs of treatment and rehabilitation at the Catonsville institution.

Tawes said he was honored that the building had been named for him. Noting that it was the second mental institution to bear his name, the governor added, "I hope that my record in mental health will prove me worthy of these high tributes."

Tawes called the building another step forward in the care of mentally ill and said "Maryland is holding its own with other states," in this field.

"In the past 14 years we have moved steadily forward in the care and treatment of the mentally ill," he said. "Today we are treating more patients in our hospitals than ever before.

"In the first half of the current fiscal year nearly 15,000 patients were treated in them. Of the 5,200 admitted during the fiscal 1961, 20 per cent were returned to the community in a month. Over half left the hospitals in less than a year."

Man Sets Fire To Self In Jail

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — A 19-year-old sailor, who police say set fire to himself in jail, was in critical condition Wednesday in Prince Georges General Hospital.

Charles F. Williamson Jr. of Columbus, Ohio, was said by Deputy Sheriff John A. Shallcross to have wrapped toilet paper around his hands and feet and set fire to it and a mattress Monday night.

"Anything is better than being behind bars," Shallcross quoted Williamson as saying.

The fire was discovered after guards heard Williamson scream. He was burned over 50 per cent of his body.

The youth, stationed at Andrews Air Force Base, was charged with armed robbery after a Hillside, Md., liquor store was robbed of $286 by two men last Dec. 8.

He was sentenced Monday to serve up to 10 years in the Maryland Institution for Men. He was burned a few hours later.

Naval Academy Opens Conference On Foreign Affairs

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The U. S. Naval Academy Foreign Affairs Conference opened Wednesday night with some 150 students from 65 colleges and universities across the nation in attendance.

The students attending the third annual four-day conference are discussing "Problems of the United States Foreign Policy in Southeast Asia."

The keynote address was to be presented by U. Alexis Johnson, deputy under-secretary of state for political affairs since 1961.

There will be a panel discussion Thursday evening with panelists Dr. Frank N. Trager, National War College; William Jorden, special assistant to the under-secretary of state for political affairs; Admiral Arthur W. Radford, USN, retired, and Charles E. Deleuw, president of Deleuw, Cather & co., engineers.

Maryland News In Brief

BALTIMORE (AP)—Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, Maryland congressman-at-large, has been named 1963 state campaign chairman of the Maryland Association for Mental Health.

The association's fund-raising drive will begin April 28, the beginning of Mental Health Week. The Bell-Ringer March, the door-to-door campaign, will be completed in May.

SALISBURY (AP) — The Salisbury City Council has rejected an ordinance to place a $250 annual license tax on pinball and console machines.

A $50 annual city licensing fee on the machines remains in effect. Police chief William J. Chatham said he had wanted the ordinance as a means to eliminate some of the city's machines.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — The Black and Decker Manufacturing Co. reports that its consolidated net sales for the first six months of the fiscal year have increased 11 per cent over sales for the same period last year.

Robert D. Black, chairman of the board, said net sales reached $42,137,187 and net earnings were $3,385,559. Net income was equivalent to $1.42 per share with 2,378,758 shares of common stock outstanding. Black said demand for the diversified power tool products of the company and its subsidiaries continues to be good in the world markets.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The fatal accident toll for the year in Maryland reached 166 Wednesday with the deaths of two men on the Baltimore Beltway. The rate is 26 higher than last year.

Killed when their station wagon went out of control on the beltway were Joseph H. Rider, 34, and John C. Snyder, Sr., both of Baltimore.

FREDERICK (AP)—Two banks in Frederick and Walkersville, dating back to 1817, will merge officially Friday.

The new bank will be known as the Farmers & Mecanics National Bank. It will have total deposits of $53.6 million, resources of $59.8 million and capital funds of nearly $6 million.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The office of Gov. Tawes reported Wednesday that a public hearing definitely will be held on the controversial bill to fix minimum retail prices on liquor.

The proposal, once vetoed by the governor in the past, has sparked a battle within the industry.

Hearing Called On Bill Covering Chiropractors

Liquor Pricing Measure May Also Be Given Airing

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Tawes set Wednesday a hearing on a controversial bill which whould include chiropractors in state medical programs for the indigent.

The hearing will be held at 2 p.m. next Monday in the governor's office here.

At present the Maryland Health Department may contract only with medical doctors, dentists and hospitals for treatment of the poor and medically indigent. They are expected to oppose the inclusion of chiropractors.

In announcing the hearing, Tawes' office said no date has been set for an expected hearing on a bill requiring that the state fix minimum retail prices on liquor.

The proposal, vetoed once in the past by the governor, has sparked a battle within the industry and it will be surprising if Tawes doesn't hold a hearing on it.

There also has been no date set for the governor's meeting with the board of Anne Arundel County commissioners. He promised the commissioners to hear their views on county bills before signing any of them.

These are the only hearings now contemplated, according to executive aides.

Tawes will sign more bills from the 1963 legislative session next Tuesday. He has until May 7 to complete action on the more than 400 bills remaining. They are arriving daily from the attorney general's office, which screens each piece of legislation before the governor acts on it.

Gasparella Named Carnegie Tech Coach

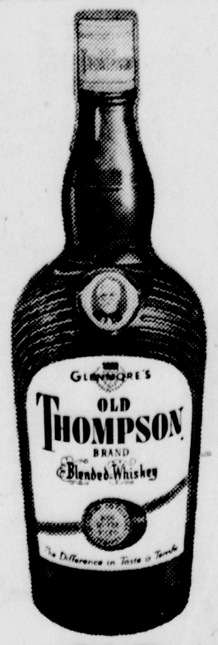

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Joe Gasparella, onetime Notre Dame and Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback, was appointed head football coach Wednesday at Carnegie Tech.

Gasparella, partner in an architectural firm and lecturer at Carnegie Tech, replaces Eddie Hirshberg, who resigned at the end of last season.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I cannot discuss this problem with anyone else because I'm ashamed to admit the situation exists.

We have a two-year-old boy and a four-month-old daughter. My wife adores the boy and keeps him immaculate. She is always cuddling him or playing with him. She brags about him to friends and relatives and it's plain to see she worships the little guy.

My wife ignores our little girl completely. The child is often lying in soiled clothing when I come home. She cries all the time. I sometimes wonder if she has been fed. The child has a rash on her legs which the doctor says is from neglect. My wife keeps "forgetting" to get the medicine he prescribed. I finally went out and got it myself.

I'm afraid my wife dislikes this child and is not caring for her properly. Is it possible for a mother to feel this way? Please give me some help. I am deeply concerned.—J. L.

DEAR J. L.: Your wife's attitude toward the little girl is indeed "unnatural." It is sick. Her resentment against the child is a transference of hostility and anger which is rooted elsewhere.

Your wife needs professional help at once and I hope you will see that she gets it. Very young children must have love and affection. They can be permanently scarred if they are not given emotional support.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you will never print this because it's easy to see what side you are on.

Why did you publish all those letters about "Old Gaffers" making it appear as if they are the dangerous drivers—a threat to life and limb?

Anyone who has an ounce of sense knows the teenage punks are the guilty ones. This is why insurance rates are sky high for drivers under 25.

A recent survey showed that seven out of ten boys between 16 and 25 years of age have been involved in a major accident. Only two out of ten old gaffers had been in wrecks.

I'd risk my neck any day with a 75-year-old gaffer before I'd ride with a 17-year-old punk who has to rev up a piece of junk just to get the thrill of speeding.

Too bad this letter will go into your wastebasket instead of in the newspaper where it belongs. — MILLION MILE GAFFER WITH NO WRECK

DEAR NO WRECK: You drive a lot better than you read, dad. I made it clear the "Old Gaffer" letters were expressions from readers and did not reflect my point of view.

Every survey I have seen proves the drivers under 25 years of age are far more dangerous than the senior citizens.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 18 and look and act older. My Uncle Wally is 36 but looks and acts younger. He has told me he loves me and I'm sure I love him. He is not a blood relative, but an uncle by marriage. Uncle Wally married my dad's sister 10 years ago. This was a second marriage for both.

My aunt is a pleasant person but she is lazy and sloppy. They fight most of the time because she won't cook or keep house.

I know Uncle Wally and I could be happy together and he will marry me if I say the word. Boys my own age are a bore. Please tell me our love is real. Thank you.—PATTY

DEAR PATTY: Your love is real, all right. Real nothing. You are fiddling around with a married man twice your age—a two-time loser—and an uncle at that.

Where are your parents anyway? Stop seeing this moron at once or you'll be in more trouble than you need.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

County Women Nominated For State Fire Auxiliary

Two Allegany County women were nominated for state office at the spring conference of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Maryland State Firemen's Association, held in Pikesville recently. They are Mrs. Nancy Growden, member of the Bedford Road Auxiliary, for chaplain; and Mrs. Edna Hounshell, Cresaptown Auxiliary, guard.

Election will be held at the convention to be held at Ocean City, June 20-21. It was announced that the auxiliary meetings during the convention will be held in the American Legion hall, 23d street.

One new auxiliary was accepted at the conference. It was the Ladies Auxiliary of Potomac Fire Company 2, Westernport.

Preceding the meeting a picture on fire prevention was shown by the fire prevention committee of the men's association. Following the movie a donation of $500 was made for next year.

A welcome was extended and opening prayer was offered by Mrs. Helen Little, New Windsor. Mrs. Evelyn Schultz, Orchard Beach, reported she and her representatives traveled 7,457 miles during the year's visits. Mrs. Bessie Marshall, chairman of the Bessie Marshall benefit fund reported 32 cases had been taken care of during the year, at the cost of $2,240. $1,500 was transferred from the checking account to the savings account of the Bessie Marshall fund. It was reported that the secretary had purchased a new typewriter, recorder and mimeograph machine.

Of the 82 auxiliaries represented, seven were from Allegany County; and of the nine past presidents attending, Mrs. Elda Schell and Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower were from LaVale. Fifteen women attended from the auxiliaries at Bowling Green, Cresaptown, Clarysville, Corriganville, Bedford Road, Lonaconing and LaVale. There were 309 reservations for the dinner.

Miniature SC Theme Announced

It will be held from 10:30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m., featuring demonstrations in foods, music, parliamentary procedure and hobbies.

A covered dish luncheon will be held and the day will conclude with a vesper service. Rev. Harold B. Wright of the Methodist Church, Frostburg, will be the speaker.

Bus reservations are to be made by May 17. One bus will depart from the Frostburg area and the other from Cumberland. Arrangements for pickup stops have been made. One bus route will be Cumberland, Cresaptown, McCoole, Westernport.

Reservations for the Rural Women's Short Course Club spring luncheon are to be made by today at the extension office, PA 4-3320, or with Mrs. Charles Hager, OV 9-9384. The luncheon will be April 30 at Barton's Coffee House, at 1:15.

Discuss Circuit Meeting

Members of the Mrs. C. L. Bretz Division, GIA to the B of LE, discussed the spring circuit meeting, at which time the local division will be hostess to the Miss Elizabeth K. Fitzgerald Division III, Martinsburg. It will be May 15.

Plans were made to have drill practice at the May 1 meeting.

A sunshine card was sent to Mrs. Mary Moore, who is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

Personals

Mrs. Elsie Lehr, 217 North Lee Street, is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Lorraine Cullen, Frostburg, is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Amedeo Basile, Kent Avenue, has returned from visiting her niece, Sister Francis Marie Jolumbo, Emmitsburg.

SECRETARY OF THE YEAR — Miss Dorothy Lee Campbell, right, was named "Secretary of the Year" at annual Secretary's Day dinner held last evening at the Cumberland Country Club. Making the presentation is Mrs. Lucy Balsley, president of Algonquin Chapter, National Secretaries Association, and last year's Secretary of the Year.

Ever brown crackers in bacon fat? Drain on brown paper and serve at once. Good with that before-dinner drink. Cook bacon over very low heat so that the bacon fat you use will be white.

Like Western sandwiches? Make the filling — beaten eggs, chopped green pepper and ham—in a very small skillet, then fold over and it will go between the two slices of bread.

Scrumptious cake filling: Brandied apricot preserves folded into stiffly whipped cream. But don't add sugar to the cream; the preserves will contribute enough sweetness.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Say It In Ink: Thank You!

Spring is a time full of great events. There are weddings and showers, graduations, Mother's Day, special religious events. The year-round great events add their quota of new babies, birthdays, and all the occasions of gift-giving.

This is a good time to check up on your gift-receiving charm. Failing to say a proper thank-you is no small weakness in your charm — it's a fatal flaw. Any girl or woman who so neglects etiquette deserves never to receive another gift — a fate that would be devastating to most feminine hearts.

Like all etiquette, the motive is consideration for others. The gift may be large or small, just what you wanted or a — uh, conversation piece. The gift was given, however, and it must be acknowledged.

If the gift is given in person, you satisfy requirements by voicing your thanks. If it is sent, then you send written thanks — as quickly as possible. If you can and want to underline oral thank-you's by a later note, it will indicate your special appreciation.

Brides may not be able to get off all their thank-you notes immediately, and everyone understands a reasonable delay. (It's a real help, one you'll thank yourself for later, to keep current with gifts that arrive before the wedding.) In any case, let the delay be as short as possible. If you have put off writing ANY kind of thank-you note, though, never adopt an "It's too late, I'll forget the whole thing" attitude. It's never too late. Write your thanks along with a brief apology. The gift-giver is not likely to forget, or forgive, the rudeness of your permanent silence.

The note itself is, at the minimum, a few lines expressing your thanks, mentioning the gift. Embellish this minimum with as much of yourself as you can: some reason why the gift is particularly appealing or useful to you; a line or two of news; appreciation of the giver's kindness or thoughtfulness. In your own handwriting, or course; on any writable card or notepaper.

Don't forget other occasions for a written thank-you — hospitality extended, a special service or kindness shown you. Whenever you feel moved to write — it's sure to be the "right" thing to do.

Opening lead: Queen of ♡

The declarer in today's hand was the victim of a bad trump break. However, a four-one division in a suit is by no means unheard of, and South should have made allowances for this possibility in planning his campaign.

West opened the queen of hearts and the ace was played from the dummy. Declarer observed that he had a ready discard available for his losing heart on North's diamond suit. He proceeded to draw two rounds of trumps first, so that if anyone ruffed in as the diamonds were being run, it would be with a master spade. When East showed out on the second trump lead, however, South found himself confronted with a serious complication.

His next step was to run the diamond suit discarding a heart and a club from his hand. Had West been obliging enough to ruff in at some point, declarer would have regained control of the hand for, tho West can draw a third round of trumps, the dummy and South each retain one spade and the latter has the time needed to develop his club suit. West was content however to discard two clubs on the long diamonds and, when a club was led subsequently, he was in with the ace and now drew all of the remaining trumps. The defenders' heart suit took the balance and a two trick setback was registered.

The declarer irrevocably surrendered control over the proceedings as soon as he cashed the second high spade. Inasmuch as there is every reasonable expectation that he can get rid of his heart loser on the third round of diamonds, that is—before an opponent is able to ruff in, South should be willing to give up two spades and a club if need be. In other words, the odds for a four-one division of the adverse trumps are distinctly greater than a six-one break in diamonds, and South should take out insurance against the former possibility.

It is suggested that he cash only one high spade, before proceeding to run the diamonds. Now, if West refuses to ruff in on the third diamond and waits instead until he gets in with the ace of clubs, South retains the top spade which prevents his opponent from being able to draw all the trumps. Declarer can get in again in time to run his established club suit, and the defenders are limited to two spades and one club trick.

Westernport Man Indicted In Tax Case

A Westernport business man has been indicted by a federal grand jury in Baltimore on three counts of income tax evasion.

Indicted was James A. Welsh, Jr., for whom a bench warrant was issued by Judge Roszel C. Thomsen, chief judge of U.S. District Court, Baltimore. Joseph D. Tydings is the U.S. attorney in the case.

Welsh posted $1,000 bond Tuesday before U.S. Commissioner James Alfred Avirett for his appearance in U.S. District Court, Baltimore. Welsh appeared before Avirett with his attorney, William C. Walsh.

According to the indictment, Welsh faces three charges of income tax evasion for the years 1956, 1957, and 1958.

The federal government stated that Welsh listed his 1956 income at $12,321.66 and paid taxes of $2,782.72; that his reported income in 1957 was $14,412.06 with taxes paid amounting to $3,069.05; and that in 1958 his declared income was $16,384.94 with paid taxes totaling $3,916.21.

The government says Welsh's actual income for these years was $24,220.24 in 1956; $37,536.89 in 1957, and $31,678.58 in 1958. The government charges that Welsh owes $20,538.02 in back taxes for these three years.

Pygmyland in the Belgian Congo's Ituri forest, is a shadow world beneath a canopy of trees that admits scant sunlight. The little people are expert hunters. They move through the forest so silently that some neighboring Bantu tribesmen believe pygmies can make themselves invisible.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?—I would appreciate your answering the following questions so as to give me the benefit of your opinion on each of these important matters. You will add to the accuracy of the poll if you will withhold your vote on those questions about which you do not have a definite opinion. Should your feelings on some particular question not be strong enough to prompt your giving an unqualified "Yes" or "No" without hesitation, skip along to the next question. When you have finished checking your answers, please sign your name and mail the questionnaire back promptly, addressing me at the Senate Office Building, Washington 25, D. C. The answers will be tabulated and reported here as soon as possible. Bear in mind that none of the questions is slanted to reflect my own viewpoint, but all are posed in an effort to determine just how Marylanders feel about the grave problems facing the nation. On each of these questions, there is honest difference of opinion.

Zebras run wild at the Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument in California. The animals escaped from the late publisher William Randolph Hearst's private zoo before it was discontinued. They now mingle freely with cattle on Hearst ranchlands.

So many buildings have risen on the grounds of the American Museum of Natural History in New York that the original cornerstone cannot be found. President Ulysses S. Grant set the institution's cornerstone in 1874. A complex of 19 buildings now makes up the Museum.

Publicity Fails To Discourage U. S. Nepotism

WASHINGTON (AP)—The spotlight of recent publicity hasn't halted the practice of nepotism on Capitol Hill, but it may have made some members more sensitive about it.

Members of Congress still are employing wives, sons, daughters, brothers and sisters — and some of the relatives are drawing good salaries.

Wives of 29 House members were on the payroll in January of this year, along with at least 20 other assorted relatives. Their bosses made no attempt to hide the fact. Some of them said their relative-employes were the best-qualified for the jobs, worked hard and earned every penny of their pay.

Webster says nepotism is "bestowal of patronage by reason of relationship rather than of merit." But most of the members who employ relatives claim that their employment isn't nepotism at all, in this derogatory sense. They argue that the real test should be whether the wife or relative is a bona fide staff member who works hard at his or her job and earns the salary.

Hiring relatives is not a practice confined to the House, although House records make it easier to find out who does it.

The House has a rule that the entire payroll for all its 435 members must be printed monthly, and anyone may take a look at the record.

The Senate publishes its payroll records quarterly. There is no public record now of how many senatorial wives or other relatives were on the payroll in January, although it is known that there are some. The printed record probably won't be available until May.

An examination of the House payroll records for January of this year showed one Maryland Representative employing a relative. The employe is Miss Elizabeth L. Garmtaz, sister of Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, a Democrat. Her salary is $1,066 per month.

Another employe is related to a West Virginia Representative. He is James Kee, son of Rep. Elizabeth Kee, Democrat. His salary is $1,279.14 per mnoth.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

The report on the water resources of the Potomac River Basin has recently been submitted by the Army Corps of Engineers. This is a subject of such great importance to all of use who live in the Potomac River Valley that I shall be reporting to you frequently about it during the coming months. The recommendation which has just been submitted by the Army Corps of Engineers to the Congress was authorized in 1956. A subsequent Senate Public Works Committee Resolution and other Congressional directives called for a plan for flood control, recreation, development, and conservation of municipal and industrial water supply and pollution abatement.

Everyone will want to know that his opinions and additional information are being sought by the Government on the right solution to the important problem of the proper development of the Potomac River Valley. Interested citizens may send written views on the report to the Board. The Board would appreciate it if your views and opinions were restricted to additional material and new opinions which have not previously been submitted in public hearings which have been held on this subject in the past. The closing date for the receipt of additional views is June 30, 1963.

The report itself is of course both voluminous and technical. Some of the conclusions, however, are astounding. A dramatic example is the estimate of net water supply requirements in the Potomac River Basin in the future. In 1960, for instance, the estimate of water used in the basin was less than one hundred million gallons per day. By 1985 it is estimated that the use of water in the Potomac Basin will be about 750 million gallons per day. Then the astounding increase is predicted. In the year 2010 the rise in water supply requirements will reach the astounding figure of 2,500,000,000 gallons per day. It is perfectly obvious that with water requirements of this magnitude confronting us, immediate steps to meet the demands of the future must be considered. We must also keep in mind that in meeting the demands of the future for water we cannot ignore the demands of the future for recreation, for preservation of historic areas, for needs of every sort which only a well-developed river valley can provide for the people who live within its area.

The Army Engineers have recommended a plan for development. Some of the features of the recommended plan are that by the year 2010 all wastes will be treated before entering the basin's streams to an average of 85% effectiveness throughout the basin and 90% effective in the metropolitan area of Washington. They recommend a total of 418 headwater reservoirs for flood control, water supply, quality control and recreation. They recommend 16 major reservoirs, 3 small flood control projects, and land management and conservation measures.

I personally have not yet been convinced that a high dam on the main stem of the Potomac is a necessity and am glad to see that priority is given to the construction of the dams at the headwaters of the Potomac and its tributaries. When these projects are completed it will be possible to take a second look at the necessity for the high dam. The report is, however, valuable and interesting. It is necessary read for all citizens of the Potomac Valley and I hope you will give me the benefit of your opinions after you have studied it.

Approve McGhee

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee unanimously gave approval to the nomination of George C. McGhee, former undersecretary of state for political affairs, to become ambassador to West Germany.

Sickles Supports Right To Bargain

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to repeal the authority of the states to pass and enforce "right to work" laws was offered in Congress Wednesday by Rep. Carlton R. Sickles, D-Md.

"This grant of power to the states," Sickles said, "abridges the right of free collective bargaining. It is neither equitable nor conducive to peaceful and enlightened labor-management relations."

Sickles said his bill would repeal a section of the National Labor Relations Act permitting any state to outlaw collective bargaining agreements otherwise permissible under federal law.

Kin Of Hero Held

PARIS (UPI)—Col. Henri Fournier - Foch, grandson of World War I hero Marshal Ferdinand Foch, has been arrested on suspicion of being a leader of the outlawed anti - Gaullist National Resistance Council, it was reported Tuesday. He was arrested last Thursday night at Bloid where he commanded the 5th Infantry Regiment.

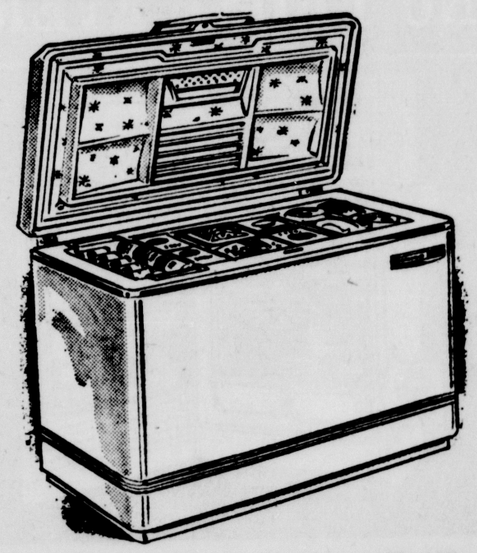

Dry Movement

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Bulgaria has ordered an undisclosed number of taverns closed and sale of alcohol banned in coffee houses to fight growing alcoholism, Radio Sofia reported Tuesday.

Fort Hill Elects Davy

There were as many votes cast in the Fort Hill High School election for Student Council Tuesday as in many town elections.

Using three voting machines supplied by the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors the students cast about 1,000 votes.

Charles Davy was elected president of the Student Council, Gary O'Neal, vice president; Linda Rowley, secretary and Janis Shobe, treasurer.

Members of the Senate elected were Bonnie Harrison, Judy Shank and Faye Struckman. The Council officers will assume their posts at the start of the new school term in September and will serve for the year.

The present Senate members conducted the election with Janice White as election supervisor.

Next Monday the officers of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes will be elected and they also will assume their posts next September.

Ambassador Named

SEOUL (UPI — The cabinet this week named Kim Chung Yul new South Korean ambassador to Washington, subject to approval by the ruling military junta. He served as defense minister under former President Syngman Rhee.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Those two fine actors, both in the Oscar race this year, Burt Lancaster and Jack Lemmon, will combine their talents in a Warner Brothers special, "The Great Race," Jack Warner tells me. The movie, to be in color and wide screen, will be one of Warner's top films for '64.

"Frankly, it will take six months of preparation to get it ready," Blake Edwards, who will direct, said "It's about two daredevils at the turn of the century who raced their old style cars all over the world. Arthur Ross and I wrote the original from a true race which took place around 1905." Martin Jurow will produce.

Blake also told me how happy he is to be working with Jack Lemmon again after their "Wine and Roses" earned Jack a nomination for an Oscar.

There's nothing more beautifying to a woman than happiness. Dorothy Malone is living proof of this in the slim, wonderful way she's looking again now that many problems she and Jacques Bergerac faced last year apparently are solved.

Dorothy is looking so very well that she has been signed as Robert Cummings' co-star in "Beach Party," the James H. Nicholson and Samuel Arkoff film for American International. Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello are the young co-stars.

It's a musical — which won't phase Dorothy. She was with Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in "Artists and Models" in 1956 before her career took a dramatic turn when she won an Oscar for "Written on the Wind."

Sweden very much resented the script of "The Prize," the motion picture based on Irving Wallace's best seller on what goes on behind the awarding of the Nobel prizes. Rumor had it that MGM wouldn't be permitted to film exteriors in Stockholm as had been planned.

I telephoned producer Pandro Berman and he said there had been a little trouble because of a newspaper article written by a Swedish correspondent. "Everything is settled now," said Pandro. "We'll start shooting in May."

Speaking of "The Prize," the female star, Elke Sommer, called on me. She's blonde, very attractive and speaks five languages fluently.

Vaughn Meader, who flew to town from Las Vegas to attend the Los Angeles Press Club luncheon given in honor of Pierre Salinger, stopped by to see me. He asked Pierre if President Kennedy had ever heard his imitations of the Kennedy family. Salinger told him he didn't know, but that he himself had heard and laughed at them.

"My next recording will be an entirely different subject," said Vaughn. "I have written two on the Kennedy family, and I think that's enough."

He said he made a date for an engagement at the Hungry Inn in San Francisco before his albums put him in the money class, and he was on his way to keep that date.

HOLLYWOOD — Those three great men of music and musicals, Irving Berlin, Arthur Freed and Vincente Minnelli, have banded together to "Say It With Music", one of the biggest musicals ever planned by MGM.

Irving, who's been in Palm Springs for a month, has been in conference with producer Freed and Director Minnelli. He will use many of his old favorites and some new songs. He has written a new jim-dandy that only a man of Irving's ability could turn out. He's so happy over being busy in Hollywood, he knows he can write a dozen more.

I congratulate MGM on getting the great Berlin, and I congratulate Irving on getting Freed and Minnelli, responsible for such hits as "American in Paris" and "Gigi".

Our latter day Mike Todd, Joe Levine, sends me a long cable of greeting from Zululand! He, Stanley Baker and Cy Enfield with 4,000 Zulus are now three weeks into shooting "Zulu." "Where else," asks Joe, "can you get Zulus but in Zululand?"

I don't know anyone who gets more of a kick out of his movie doings than Joe. Last time I saw him before he left here he told me straightfaced, "I've signed Ulla for 'Zulu'." Translated that means Joe has contracted Ulla Jacobson, the Swedish beauty, for his picture.

I called Jack Karp at Paramount to find out whether Joe was really in Zululand—or had been kidding me. "He's there all right," said the production head of Paramount, now associated in the Levine enterprise, "Next stop for Levine could be—the moon."

Before French star Alain Delon left here to catch up with his girlfriend Romy Schneider in Rome (she's working there in "The Cardinal" for Otto Preminger) he had a long talk with Eddie Fisher which may bring him back to Hollywood.

Eddie is still hot on producing "The Gouffe Case", a novel he bought originally to star Elizabeth Taylor—if you can remember as far back as when Eddie was buying stories for Liz.

Need I add, she's out of this new project and with new casting in mind, Eddie thinks Delon would be great for the hero in this drama about a French beauty, long on charm but short on morals.

New W. German U Boat Launched

KIEL, Germany (UPI) — West Germany's sixth new U-boat since World War II has been launched behind a curtain of secrecy.

The Howald Shipyard announced the launching of the A6, another in a projected series of twelve 350-ton undersea craft.

The public was excluded from the launching ceremony.

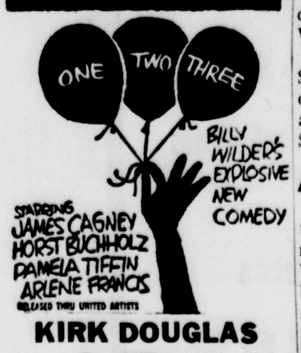

Catch Bold Thief

TOKYO (UPI) — Police have announced they have caught the bold thief who stole a $5,000 television camera from the press room in Premier Hayato Ikeda's official residence.

The police report said 29-year-old Hiroshi Shioda was caught when he tried to sell the imported camera to a shopkeeper in the Ueno district. The camera belongs to the Japanese Broadcasting Co.

Four Students Are Given College Scholarships

Four more students of Allegany County high schools have been declared winners of college scholarships sponsored by major industries in the area.

The group includes three Allegany High School seniors, Charles E. Kolb Jr., John F. Thornton and John R. Eyler, winners of scholarships sponsored by Hercules Powder Company as part of the National Merit Scholarship program; and John G. Warnick, senior at Lonaconing's Valley High School, also winner of Celanese scholarship.

The Allegany High trio are sons of Hercules employes and were selected in competition with 11,000 finalists. Eyler is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Eyler, Hopewell, Va. His father, assistant manager of the Hercules plant in Hopewell, formerly was manager of the Operations Division at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, operated by Hercules for the Navy.

Thornton is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald W. Thornton, LaVale. His father is a supervisor in the Processing Department at ABL. Kolb is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kolb Sr., LaVale, and his father is a supervisor in the ABL Processing Department.

Each of the trio has been active in extra-curricular projects. Eyler plans to major in chemistry or physics at California Institute of Technology, where he was awarded another scholarship. He plans a career as a research chemist or physicist.

Thornton intends a career in medicine and will major in required studies for that profession at Johns Hopkins University. He previously had been offered a Maryland General State tuition scholarship.

Kolb will major in the physical sciences at Massachusetts Institute of Technology toward a career as a research chemist or physicist.

Warnick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Warnick, Lonaconing, also won a Celanese scholarship. His father is a supervisor in Textile Manufacturing at the Amcelle plant.

Active in a variety of school functions, Warnick will attend Frostburg State Teachers College and major in pre-medicine studies.

Earnings Down

NEW YORK — Two steel companies, Inland and Wheeling, reported sharply reduced first quarter earnings and sales Wednesday compared with a year ago. Wheeling's earnings were down to $967,000 from $3 million in the first quarter last year. Wheeling initiated the recent steel price icreases. Inland's earnings for the quarter were off 14 per cent compared to 1962.

The plan would provide for all water supply and water quality control needs to the year 2010, flood damage reduction of about 63 per cent and recreation opportunities for up to 16 million visitor-days per year.

The report says the headwater reservoirs will decrease the average annual flood damages in their respective areas from a total of $4.1 million to $300,000.

The recreational opportunities provided under the plan, according to the report, would be easily accessible to the large urban populations of today and the even greater ones of tomorrow.

The report makes clear, however, that the Seneca impoundment would necessitate flooding part of the historic Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, a sore spot with conservationists. Other major portions of the canal, including all of the most used portion and such unique wilderness areas as the valley of the Cacapon River, would be preserved.

The report also said that because of relocations due to water impoundments, temporary tax losses and changes in the economic base would be severe in a few of the areas adjacent to the major projects.

The district engineer recommended that the report be adopted in its entirety.

Education Means More Than Memory

As long as the present adult generation can remember, parents and educators have been attacking the "tyranny of the examination." The arguments are familiar:

Examinations cannot be true tests of knowledge. Success depends too much on cramming and memory; there is luck in the choice of questions; some students suffer from "nerves" and are not at their best; performance throughout the term is a better indication of a student's knowledge than a short, sharp test.

Nonetheless, there is evidence that the public confuses success in examinations with real learning. The truth of this is often demonstrated by university graduates, particularly in arts, who—if they remember their course—can repeat parts of it but seem unable to draw on that breadth of knowledge that generates original thoughts and makes the truly educated man.

There is confusion in the ultimate aim of education. If it is to create Bacon's "fulle man," a cultivated individual, one cast in something resembling the Renaissance mold, then we must realize that we cannot achieve it through capsule-style knowledge and examinations which, however cunningly devised, test only memory.

If becoming educated were mainly a matter of memorizing information in a text book, the function of the teacher would be reduced to a minimum.

Far too many examinations are based strictly upon the more mechanical functions of memory. When learning is like a stream flowing between high banks, with tributaries forbidden, then not only education but examinations, too, are but navigation tests of a straight course. A little intelligence and a good memory serve.

But memory and superficial mental agility passing as intelligence can never be substitutes for the depth that is true education.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Noahcount Webster

"Well, sir," said Noahcount Webster, the famous lexicographer, "I'm happy that you came to me. I'm the only one who can explain to you what goes on in Washington these days."

Since Samuel Johnson had defined a lexicographer as a "harmless drudge that busies himself in tracing the origins of words," this seemed a little arrogant for old Noahcount. But we could see that he would brook no opposition.

"You see," said Noahcount, "nothing can happen here until somebody has discovered the existence of a gap. It may be a weapons gap, or a gap between the amount of money we have in our pockets now and the amount we might have if we really gave old Johann Gutenberg's invention of printing half a chance, or a gap between jobs and the number of workers available to fill them, even though some of the job-hunters happen to be oyster shuckers who wouldn't prune a tree or deliver a package if you asked 'em. Well, that's about it, the gap comes first.

"Once you've got a gap," the old fellow continued, peering up over his hexagonal lenses, "then you have to have a dialogue. In the old days around here people used to have arguments, but now everybody's more refined. Maybe it's the Harvard influence. People have to behave like they are taking parts in a play, even though they may hate each others' guts. So the dialogue is held, and everyone takes on sort of refined-like over the subject of the gap. Naturally the gap is lost sight of as the words fill it up. And while the dialogue proceeds, some one fires off a rocket or tests a new bomb or comes up with an idea that makes for a lot of new jobs, so the gap isn't the same tomorrow as it was yesterday. Nevertheless, the dialogue continues.

"Well, like I say, in the old days it was the custom for people who had gone dialoguing to spend at least half their time listening to the other fellow. If they refused to listen, it was called a monologue. But today, dialogue can mean monologue, too. The really modern idea of a dialogue is to have two monologues going simultaneously. One fellow will stand up and say that you can become prosperous by just adding twelve billion to the federal debt. The other fellow will say that an inflationary debt leaves you just where you were, or just a little worse off because you have to pay interest on the inflation. Neither one of these fellows ever listens to the other. So the dialogue never gets anywhere. It's just as if Harpo Marx was talking to the Great Stone Face.

"Well, the dialogue goes on until the time comes for action. Only nobody here uses the word action any more. Everything today is a thrust. A political writer speaks of the necessity for the 'presidential Republicans' to 're-direct the thrust of national debate.' The 'presidential Republicans,' incidentally, refers to those who intend to vote for Nelson Rockefeller, not for Barry Goldwater. It doesn't matter that Rockefeller's only a governor now, he's still a 'presidential Republican.' Anyway, like I was saying, you develop a thrust, which means that you terminate the dialogue over the gap and try to round up the votes. Your thrust may not get anywhere, for there will be thrusts coming to you from all directions. Every Congressional committee has a chairman with a thrust of his own. The President has a thrust. The lobbyists have thrusts. Because of all the thrusts that come after the dialogue, you get a tax bill in September that you might have had in April in the days when people just had arguments and then settled them by voting."

"Well, what about the gap," we asked, "does it ever get closed?"

"By the time the dialogue has become a thrust," said old Noahcount, "everybody has forgotten what the gap was. Anyway, nobody cared anything about the gap in the first place. What everybody is really concerned with is his image. You project your image by filling the gap with dialogue and then making a thrust."

"But," we objected, "what if you really aren't like your image at all? Come to think of it, your own image as a lexicographer isn't very good. You say 'like I say,' not 'as I say.'"

"I'm a modern lexicographer," said old Noahcount Webster. "Haven't you heard of the brand that tastes good like a cigarette should? Like I say, there's a gap between what you were taught in school and what is considered the correct thing now, and you'd better develop some thrust about getting hep. A little dialogue about this might help improve your image."

Reflections On Souvenirs Of Mighty Empires

By Joseph Alsop

VIENNA

In a rather dusty, half-deserted room in the local ethnological museum, spread out in a drab showcase like a brilliant butterfly preserved in an unworthy box, the Quetzal Crown shimmers and glitters as few jewels ever have done.

The design is simple. From a headband patterned with smaller feathers, bright blue and red and yellow, and sewn with row upon row of heavy sequins of pure gold, the high coronet of quetzal feathers soars outwards and upwards, blue-green, iridescent, all glory and all grace.

The crown used to be called the "Cape of Montezuma"; for its form is cape-like when it is flattened out, although it was in fact a royal headdress. Whether the prince who wore the Quetzal Crown was truly Cortez's unhappy Emperor-captive, no one nowadays can be quite sure.

There is no doubt, however, that it is one of the few surviving objects from the extraordinary collection—Aztec and Maya feather works, gold and emerald flowers from the jewelry-gardens of the Inca, and the like — that the Conquistadors sent home master what manner of lands they had conquered. Only the bullion and the jewels mattered much to the Spanish Court, so almost all these marvels are now lost.

Yet, somehow or other, the Quetzal Crown came into the possession of Archduke Ferdinand of Tyrol, that all-voracious collector who gathered everything from narwhal horns and two-headed calves and stuffed crocodiles to the finest books, most glorious pictures, and richest armor of his time. His daughter was the ugliest woman in Europe; but profitable marriage was the policy of the Hapsburg House. Thus the Quetzal Crown came to Vienna.

It is odd to find this most superb of all remaining souvenirs of the powerful, cruel Aztec Empire in such dry-as-dust ethnological surroundings. The Quetzal Crown would be more at home, one cannot help feeling, in the treasure rooms of the Austrian Imperial Palace, the Hofburg, where they show the regalia of the Holy Roman Empire.

The Quetzal Crown would then outshine the Holy Roman Empire's Coronation Cape. Yet, as an object heavy with romance, it could make no higher claim than the cape makes. The cape has other competitors in the treasure rooms — the Crown of the Empire, made for Otho the Great 900 years ago, but now lacking Otho's great Talisman - Jewel which Walther von der Vogelweide called the "wise" stone; and the Holy Lance of Lombardy; and the Gospels of the Empire, lettered in gold and silver on purple vellum in the Palace School of Charlemagne.

Yet of all these, somehow, the Coronation Cape is best. It is scarlet silk, embroidered in gold and colors. In its center is the Tree of Life — the oldest motif in the history of art, coming from Sumer itself, from the first civilized men. Flanking the Life-Tree are lions attacking camels — the ancient Asian animal style's classical motif of the combat between flesh-eater and grass-eater, which you will find in other versions in Scythian goldworks, in the earliest reliefs from the Acropolis at Athens, in the Ordos bronzes, and over and over again elsewhere.

The border of this rich but savage garment bears an Arabic inscription, wishing health, prosperity, and joy to the "king." The king was Roger II of the Norman Dynasty in Sicily, who reigned in the twelfth century. Roger's weavers used Arabic because the Norman knights who won the rich island never displaced its Greco-Saracen culture. There were only a few hundred of them against several million Sicilians; and the Normans were rude savages in any case, in comparison to the people they conquered.

From the Norman kings of Sicily, the Coronation Cape came down to the strangest genius of the Dark Ages, Frederick II, stupor mundi. The marvel of the world wore the cape at his coronation as Holy Roman Emperor; and it was used thereafter at each succeeding imperial coronation, until Napoleon's unhappy Austrian father-in-law glumly proclaimed the dissolution of the Holy Roman Empire, by Napoleon's peremptory command.

Look at the Quetzal Crown and you remember Cortez's march from the sea, and the captivity of Montezuma, and the glories of the Palace of the Birds, and the long, hard fight on the Causeway, and the Aztec warriors terrified by the Spanish horses, and the last, improbable triumph of the Conquistadors. Look at the Coronation Cape, and you are reminded of those Normans seizing Sicily much as Cortez and his men seized Mexico, and of Frederick and his long struggle with the Pope, and the stories of Frederick's wisdom and wickedness, and the sad death of young Conradin, last of Frederick's race.

But, above all, both crown and cape are beautiful yet stern reminders that even the mightiest empires are born, as men are born, with their ends foreordained. Wealth and power, splendor and learning come to dust, or at least to a museum cupboard, at the last. To some states, only a generation is given, to some ten, to some twenty; but twenty generations is a long lease.

This fact of history is too easily forgotten — which is why it may be well to reflect, for a moment, on the Coronation Cape and the Quetzal Crown in this very different age of Kennedy, Khrushchev, and the H-bomb, when men have the power to bring history itself to an end.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MEDICARE — In all the talk about economics in the capital this session, the plan for medical care for the aged through Social Security has all but been lost sight of. But once the House has gotten the tax cut measure out of the way, look for a lot of talk, and possibly some action on Medicare.

This doesn't mean that it will be forced to a vote in both the Senate and House this session. Instead, the plan is to move it part way along, with the crucial fight coming next year, when the battle will be fresh in the minds of the voters at election time.

In order to accomplish this, Congress is setting in for another super-long session this year. There will be no early adjournment, as some members hoped when the session began last January.

According to the top congressional liaison for the White House, the word is—get down to work. The White House has a timetable for congressional actions which is dictated primarily by political considerations. Presidential intimates are determined to maintain it, for they know that a second term for Kennedy could well rest in the balance.

ROME HAD A WORD—Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois is one of a vanishing breed of florid orators. Dirksen has an impressive speaking voice and sometimes uses it, together with a knack for fanciful expression, to almost caricature the old-time declaimers from the South.

The other day, during a TV interview, Dirksen was asked for his views on Cuba. He couldn't resist paraphrasing the words of a Roman patriot, who is remembered for his phrase "Carthage must be destroyed."

And Dirksent being the orator he is, couldn't resist using the Latin form of the phrase: "Castro delenda est." Sure enough, a few days later, he got a letter from a Latin professor chiding him for having used the feminine instead of the masculine form. He should have said: "Castro delendus est."

Commented Dirksen, who tells the story on himself, "After all, I only studied Latin for a year."

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Said Roger W. Babson:

"When I find myself depressed over present conditions, "I can, within one hour, banish worry and turn myself into a shouting optimist . . . Here is how I do it. I enter my history library, close my eyes, and reach for a book, not knowing whether I am picking up Prescott's "Conquest of Peru" or Suetonius' "Lives of the Twelve Caesars." I then open my eyes and read for an hour; and the more I read, the more sharply I realize that the world has always been in the throes of agony, that civilization has always been tottering on the brink. The pages of history fairly shriek with tragic tales of war, famine, poverty, pestilence, and man's inhumanity to man. After reading history for an hour, I realize that bad as conditions are now, they are infinitely better than they used to be. This enables me to see and face my present troubles in their proper perspective as well as to realize that the world as a whole is constantly growing better."

Sir Thomas Beecham, internationally famous conductor, adamantly refused to hire female musicians. "If they're pretty," he explained testily, "they distract my male musicians. If they're not pretty, they distract me."

Role Of Emotions In Raynaud's Syndrome

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

Several summers ago we were conducting postgraduate clinics for a group of visiting physicians. A young woman with a circulatory problem (Raynaud's syndrome) told how her fingers turned white, cold, and numb whenever she became emotionally upset or was exposed to cool air. The color returned to normal when she relaxed or entered a warm room.

The appearance of the hands was normal at this time because the young lady was not upset and we were having a heat wave. Another woman entered the room and whispered to our patient, "Mother just had a stroke." There was a gasp and, as the patient held up her hands, all of the fingers turned white. Both women hurried away and we were left with a vivid picture of what the emotions can do to the circulation.

The manifestations of Raynaud's syndrome are variable. In some, only one finger is involved, whereas others develop color changes in the feet as well as the hands. Exposure to cold may be more of a causative factor than emotional upsets, and vice versa.

In some instances, the attacks are tolerated and no treatment is needed. Others have a progressive form of the disease, leading to wasting of the pulp at the end of the fingers, along with painful ulcers near the tip. Vasodilating drugs are needed and the victim must avoid the cold or wear proper clothing to remain warm.

Now and then certain nerve centers along the spine are removed (sympathectomy) to make the blood vessels relax. But this procedure seldom is of value when the attacks are brought on primarily by emotional disturbances. These men and women require sedatives and tranquilizers to quiet them. Psychiatric care and counseling are helpful.

Since most victims of this circulatory disorder are bothered by the cold, we frequently are asked whether moving to a warm climate will be worthwhile. The answer is no, because the temperature must exceed 85 degrees and it will benefit the reactions stimulated by anxiety, frustration, or anger.

PRESSURE FLUCTUATIONS

J. L. writes: I went to a doctor and he checked my blood pressure. It was 170/102. Three hours later, I went to another and it was 135/85. What caused such a change?

REPLY

You were more relaxed when the second reading was made or the physician recognized your concern and told an excusable untruth for your own good.

BUMPY ELBOW

M. S. writes: I have a hard, crusty, flat corn on one elbow. It continues to spread and little hard bumps form around it. What is this and what is the cause?

REPLY

It is difficult to diagnose skin lesions via a newspaper. Possibilities include calluses, warts, calcium or cholesterol deposits, and psoriasis.

TOMORROW: Epilepsy in later life.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Columnist Finds Brando's Outlook On Life Opposite Of Screen Roles

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Marlon Brando, who knows Hollywood better than most actors, came to Washington this week and showed that he knew Washington better than many Congressmen.

He came to open his new picture "The Ugly American," and he came armed with photostats of ugly speeches by Sen. William Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who heads the Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Allan Ellender, the Louisiana Democrat who is the chief Senate pruner of foreign aid.

"Sen. Ellender travels around the world," said Brando, "and then comes back and writes an official report saying 'the canals in Holland are full of water'. And this startling piece of information is printed at the taxpayers' expense."

The most interesting thing about Marlon Brando that I discovered was the fact that his outlook on life was just the opposite of the roustabout in "On The Waterfront" which started him on his career as one of the great actors of Hollywood.

"This is no kind of a life to live —to bring up children in," he confided. "The values are all wrong. The head waiter gives you the best table in the restaurants. Why? Not because of what you stand for but because he's seen your mug on the screen.

"My son sees people asking for autographs and says 'Daddy, what's that for?' My boys are getting old enough to say 'Daddy, I saw you on television'. This is no standard by which to bring up kids. They'll get to think that publicity is the main thing in life.

"Acting is a boring business, and I'm going to get out of it in a few more years. You do one picture a year and loaf the rest of the time. I want to get into something worthwhile."

"Ugly" Senators

The debonair hero of "Mutiny On the Bounty" and the more serious hero of "Julius Caesar" wrinkled his Roman nose and changed the subject to international problems, specifically "The Ugly American," the American image abroad. The picture had its gala opening in Bangkok and some State Department officials thought it would hurt American prestige in that part of Southeast Asia.

"What hurts American prestige in Asia and Africa," said Brando, "is such things as the statement by Senator Ellender that African nations are not ready for independence—the statement that got him barred from three African republics. That can undo all the money we spend for educational movies and radio broadcasts and propaganda abroad.

"Ellender complains that we are spending too much of the taxpayers' money in these countries. Then he travels to Africa and makes it necessary to spend more of the taxpayers' money to undo the results of his trip."

Brando said he understood the ambition of the Senator from Louisiana was to visit every country in the world. "I hope he can fulfill that ambition soon and then stay home," he observed.

"I read that article in Parade by Jack Anderson telling about members of Congress who cheated," he continued. "I just can't understand how Congressmen could do things like that and then turn around and criticize other people."

I explained that the majority of Congressmen are honest, but unfortunately it was a fact that the moral standards of Congressmen had dropped of late.

Senatorial Courage

"Another thing I wish you'd explain to me," asked the young man who pretends to be tough on the screen but who isn't in real life, "is Sen. Fulbright. Here is a man who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He helps set the pattern for our foreign policy around the world. Yet he's against civil rights. Doesn't he realize that this hurts us all over the world where men are struggling for their rights and where we pose as the great champion of men's rights?

"Sen. Kefauver has more courage than almost any other Senator," I explained.

Marlon Brando is a stem-winder who doesn't give much chance for an interviewer to ask questions. He asks you the questions. The conversation drifted on to the vast resources of Africa and what would happen if they fell into the hands of the Communist world and the effect which "ugly Americans" had on that battle. There was no question about where the man who played the lead in "The Ugly American" put certain Senators in that battle.

"Television is changing the American political scene," said Brando, changing the subject. "When that TV camera takes a close-up it looks right through you, reads your character, shows whether you've got it or haven't got it. That's why Nixon lost."

I couldn't help but wonder what would happen if the handsome "tough guy" from Hollywood abandoned Hollywood for politics and the sincerity of his views shone out through the TV cameras. Some "ugly" politicians might be in for a lot of competition.

The Role Of Lunacy

By John Crosby

LONDON

I was always taught in school that madness was not a proper theme for a dramatist, that it got the author off the hook too easily, and that anyway, nuttiness was simply not a proper sphere of investigation for the inquiring creative mind.

Just the same, madness runs through two of the most brilliant London productions at the moment. One of them is "King Lear," written by William Shakespeare some 400 years ago, and the other is "The Physicists," written more recently by Frederick Durrenmatt. Both are performed alternately at the Aldwych Theater by the Royal Shakespeare Company, both superbly directed by Peter Brook, and with somewhat the same cast of actors.

"Lear" is an old play, but it isn't acted often, and the fact that it is a big hit at this juncture of nuclear history reveals a lot about the state of our nerves. Durrenmatt's play is an even more brilliant exercise in that old conundrum, "Who's looney now?" It opens vigorously with the body of a young murdered nurse lying on the floor of a very posh and expensive booby hatch. (The corpse is played by a quite live actress who contrived to look not only dead but murdered with great authority.)

We discover that she's been murdered by a brilliant but insane physicist and that she's the second nurse to be extinguished by brilliant but nutty physicists at that sanitarium. As a matter of fact, murder is the wrong word, since insane people can't be guilty of murder; these are simply accidents. However, there are three physicists in this looney-bin, two of whom have committed these accidents and the third of whom will commit another.

One physicist thinks he's Albert Einstein, another that he's Sir Isaac Newton, and the third has visions of King Solomon. We meet them all, find them likeable and very intelligent, and wonder about their madness. Then we discover they are not at all mad. The most brilliant of them has fled to the insane asylum to escape that even greater insane asylum of a world obsessed with self-destruction. The other two are secret agents bent on capturing him for their respective governments. (Presumably the United States and Russia, but you never find out.)

Then, just when you think you have Mr. Durrenmatt pinned to the wall, he pulls another trick from his sleeve. The plot takes an extraordinary lurch and you find yourself forced to contemplate a whole new set of circumstances, all very plausible though horrifying. Just when you've digested that one, out pops another. This continues right up to the final curtain, which is itself a masterful bit of theatrical legerdemain. Durrenmatt is a wizard at sheer theatrical sleight-of-hand and, entirely apart from its philosophic content, which is very large, "The Physicists" is a rich evening of theater.

It's also inordinately well-acted by Irene Worth as a hunch-backed woman psychiatrist (she also plays Goneril in "King Lear" with chilly gusto), Cyril Cusak, Alan Webb, and Michael Hordern as the physicists. Both actors and author view the macabre with detached good humor. This macabre humor —sort of upper-level horror comics for the intellectuals — fits the modern temper and is doing very well in the theater everywhere. "Oh, Dad, Poor Dad, Momma Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling so Sad" is the same sort of humor (though not in the same league) and so is "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Playing the same side of the street is Stanley Kubrick, one of my favorite movie directors, who is here directing a movie called "Dr. Strangelove, or How I Learned to Love the Bomb." Now this is a comedy about nuclear bomb warfare which wipes out the planet. It too has a strong streak of madness, the war being touched off by a nutty general. The twist is that it's played for laughs. I have no idea whether Kubrick will get away with this, but I applaud his courage.

Kubrick, who wrote his own script, told me the other day that he had read 60 or 70 books on the subject of nuclear warfare, can talk about it with the fluency of a Rand Corp. scientist, and said he wanted to put in his film "some sense of the absurdity" of the hydrogen bomb.

"The deterrent posture," he said to me, "is a kind of lunacy of necessity. It's necessary in this kind of cold war to convince your opponent that you are a little irrational. Otherwise your nuclear threat lacks credibility, because rational people would never use the bomb. Khrushchev has worked very hard at trying to make us believe he's looney, banging his shoe on the table and all that."

Lunacy, then, has become part of diplomatic strategy. And the diplomatic personality. It's not surprising that the playwrights are finding it more absorbing than adultry as a pivot for the plot.

Tuna Stroganoff

In the American blending of international cuisine, it is not uncommon to learn of such get togethers as Danish Pizza. Out of this same melting pot of culinary ideas comes TUNA STROGANOFF. It brings together English Muffins, Russia's thick sour cream and the sea gem of the Pacific, tuna fish. For this merger you saut'e together ½ cup of chopped onion and 1 cup mushroom pieces in ¼ cup butter. To this you add a can of condensed cream of celery soup; 2 (7-ounce) cans of tuna, flaked; a dash of Worchestershire sauce; ½ cup each of prepared sour cream and chopped pimiento. Serve the Stroganoff piping hot over toasted halves of 4 English muffins.

Herbs, Spices Subtle Accent For Meats

Dare to venture on your own with meat dishes and experiment with those herbs and spices too often left sitting on the kitchen shelf. They can enhance the flavor of ordinary foods, taking them from the ordinary to the gourmet class.

Here are a few tips on using spices and herbs in meat cookery. Use them fresh and use them sparingly . . . about ¼ teaspoon per pound of meat or less for stronger spices. Never make them overpowering, for spices should enhance the flavor of the meat, not disguise it.

A number of spices and herbs go well with beef stews and pot-roasts: basil, bay leaf, celery seed, cloves, garlic, ginger, marjoram, oregano, rosemary or thyme. For veal, try poultry seasoning, tarragon, onion salt or celery salt.

Cloves and mustard are naturals with cured pork. Add caraway seed cloves, oregano or sage to fresh pork, or rub corriander on a pork roast.

Lamb dishes are deliciously flavored with dill, garlic salt, marjoram, mint or rosemary. Bay leaf, caraway seed, cloves, garlic or thyme would be delicious with liver.

Ground beef and meat loaves take well to a variety of herbs and spices, such as basil, marjoram, oregano, garlic salt, celery salt and onion salt.

These are just a few ideas to set you exploring into the world of meats with herbs and spices. Many combinations are possible, and each new discovery will add to your good-cook reputation.

LITTLE WOMAN

"Well, if you can't say anything good about her, say SOMETHING!"

Food Guide

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Outdoor eaters planning picnics and barbecues will find plenty of good buys in beef cuts, pork cuts, and broiler-fryers this weekend. Eggs also will be very good buys.

Meat counters will show a good variety for the weekend. In beef, round roast, chuck roast, and steaks will lead. Pork loin roasts and smoked hams also will be prominent. Lamb legs and chops, along with veal roasts will round out the assortment. Broiler-fryers will lead the poultry.

At the produce counters, best buys will be artichokes, broccoli, carrots, dandelion, eggplant, endive and escarole, lettuce, mushrooms, onions, potatoes, sweet potatoes, green onions and radishes.

Good buys will be snap beans, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, corn, cucumbers, peppers, squash, asparagus, tomatoes, and miscellaneous greens.

In fruit, top value will be oranges and avocados with apples and bananas in good supply.

At the dairy counters, eggs and dairy products are now in seasonally abundant supply.

Apple-Berry Dessert

A rosy-posy . . . on the sweet side

Partially thaw strawberries. Combine strawberries, apple sauce and marshmallows. Chill. Makes 4-6 servings.

Beer Adds Subtle Flavor To Kidney Vegetable Stew

Delicious, nutritious kidneys are too often overlooked in the average family's meal planning. Whether you choose beef, lamb or veal kidneys, all three contribute protein and generous amounts of iron to the diet.

One of the tastiest ways of serving your family or guests the wholesome goodness of beef kidneys is to prepare them in a beer- or ale-flavored vegetable stew. The subtle tang of the amber brews adds a certain "je ne sais quoi" to the meat, enhancing its particular flavor. Using beer or ale as the flavoring ingredient in meat stews has been a favorite European culinary custom for centuries. And whether you use beer or ale is a matter of personal choice; the two are interchangeable in recipes—some people preferring the extra "tartness" of ale to the mildness of beer.

For color and added flavor, small white onions sliced carrots go into this stew, along with such seasonings as garlic, bay leaf and parsley. Sounds good? It's delicious! Serve it with crisp crackers and a wedge of cheese, along with handy mugs of thoroughly chilled beer or ale.

Kidney Vegetable Stew

1½ pounds beef kidneys
12 ounces (bottle or can) beer
beer or ale
2 cups water
1 tablespoon parsley
1 teaspoon salt
½ clove garlic
½ bay leaf
½ pound white onions, small
3 carrots, sliced

Soak kidneys in salted water one hour. Slice kidneys and remove veins. Rinse well. Put in kettle with beer, water and seasonings. Cover and simmer 1 hour, or until kidneys are barely tender. Add onions and sliced carrots. Cook 20 minutes. Thicken gravy if desired with 2 tablespoons flour for each cup stock.

YIELD: 7 cups.

Lazy Jane's Weekend Beef Casserole

(Serves 4)

1 lb. beef chuck or stewing beef, cut into 2-inch chunks
½ cup California Burgundy, Claret or other red dinner wine
1 (10½-ounce) can undiluted condensed consomme
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 medium-size onion, sliced
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
¼ cup sifted all-purpose flour

Combine beef, wine, consomme, salt, pepper and onion in casserole. Mix flour with crumbs; stir into casserole mixture. Cover; bake in slow oven (300°F.) about 3 hours or until beef is tender. (An especially easy recipe, since beef need not be browned before baking.)

Apple Juice Fluff

Light As A Dream

2 cups apple juice
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 package lady fingers
Maraschino cherries

Heat apple juice; add lemon gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill until syrupy. Set over ice water; beat with rotary beater until fluffy. Spoon into sherbet glasses lined with lady fingers. Garnish with maraschino cherries. Makes 6-8 servings.

Sausage Links Step Into A Supper Trio

When sausage is mentioned, fresh pork sausage links probably first come to mind. Although there are countless sausage variations, the spicy little links still are near the top of the popularity list.

But, when do you serve them? You're missing wonderful meals if sausage links only appear on your breakfast table. Quite intriguing variations can enhance brunch, lunch or supper menus.

For instance this Sausage-Apple-Noodle trio is a winter supper idea. Sausage links combine in a casserole dish with noodles, applesauce and a topping of grated cheese. Nutmeg, cinnamon and lemon juice add extra taste.

Sausage-Apple-Noodle Trio

1 pound pork sausage links
2 tablespoons cold water
1 tablepsoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 can (16 ounces) apple sauce
1 teaspoon salt
4 ounces noodles, cooked
⅓ cup grated cheddar cheese

Grease a 1½-quart casserole. Place sausage links and water in cold frying-pan. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 5 minutes. Remove cover. Pour off drippings and lightly brown links. Add lemon juice, nutmeg and cinnamon to the apple sauce. Add salt to cooked noodles. Arrange half of the noodles in casserole. Place half of the sausage links on noodles, then half the apple sauce mixture. Repeat layers. Top with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. 4 servings.

Week's Food Economies

Fresh and crisp, leafy green vegetables brighten up the produce counters. These are available in ample supply and variety to please every family's tastes, says Virginia L. McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore office of the Department of Markets University of Maryland.

Spinach and kale, both on the list of best buys, are coming from Maryland farms and nearby states. Spinach, long associated as the food of the comic strip character "Popeye the Sailor" is the most popular of the dark green leafy vegetables. The early crop of Maryland spinach comes into production the early part of April and continues into June. Fresh spinach and kale are sold in bulk or trimmed and washed in transparent 10 or 20-ounce bags. A good look will tell you much about the quality. The first sign of quality is freshness. Look for crisp, clean, bright color, and avoid any wilted or yellow-spotted leaves. Cooking greens like spinach and kale are perishable and need a cool, moist storage until cooked. For best flavor and maximum food value, cook greens in the smallest amount of water for the least possible time. Green leafy vegetables are important in your meals as one of the best sources of Vitamin A available.

Tomatoes from Florida are attractively priced and usually very good in quality. New round red potatoes are on the market from Florida. The red potato is especially good for potato salad since it retains shape and firmness after cooking.

At the fruit counter strawberries from Louisianna are available. This is an indication that the season is moving northward.

Bananas are on the best buy list. This imported fruit is available all year around but prices are favorable to low cost per serving. Purchase bananas in the stage of ripeness you desire for the use you intend making of the fruit.

Watch for sales on beef, particularly steaks, as the supply of beef is expected to continue heavy for the next month. Fryer chickens are on the best buy list, supplies are heavy and prices very attractive.

Kitchen Simplicity

One of the simplest and best materials to use for surfacing kitchen counters, drainboards and backsplashes is ceramic tile. This is because new epoxy installation materials, and methods, make it possible to apply ceramic tile to a variety of backing materials in very thin setting beds. Ceramic tile also is easy to work with because, besides flat pieces, it is available in specially shaped pieces for trimming corners, edges and intersections with other materials.

Budget Stew Has Flavor Of Middle East

Many Americans think foods with a foreign flair are strange tasting, difficult to prepare and not economical. This idea is quite far from the truth. Where people have less, as in many other countries, food is prepared with a great deal of ingenuity.

Beef Curry on Rice is one practical, economical dish with a flavor adapted from another land. The seasoning, curry, is typical of the Middle East. You will find its interesting flavor a welcome addition to your table.

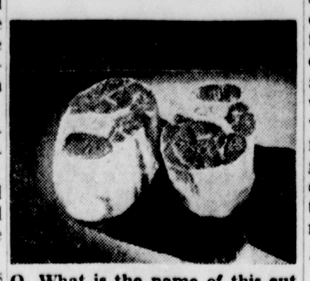

Home economist Reba Staggs recommends Beef Curry on Rice as a budget-wise dish because it utilizes a less demanded cut of meat . . . boneless beef for stew. Remember that any meat can be made tender by proper cooking methods and this one requires long, slow cooking in liquid.

Beef Curry on Rice

- 2 pounds boneless beef, cut in 1-inch pieces
- ¼ cup flour
- 2 tablespoons curry powder
- 1 clove garlic, chopped
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 2 cups water
- ½ cup raisins
- 1 cup sliced apples, peeled and cored
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 3 cups hot cooked rice

Mix ¼ cup flour with curry powder. Dredge meat in seasoned flour. Cook garlic in lard or drippings about 5 minutes. Remove garlic, add meat and brown. Pour off drippings. Add water, raisins, apples, onion and salt. Cover tightly and simmer for 2 to 2½ hours, or until meat is tender. Thicken with 3 tablespoons flour. Serve over rice. 4 to 6 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Cross-cut Beef Shanks.

Q. Where do they come from and how are they identified?

A. They are small pieces cut across the bone of the fore shank.

Q. How are they prepared?

A. Usually by cooking in liquid, often for soup. The meat is covered with water, the utensil covered tightly, and the meat cooked slowly for 2 to 3 hours or until tender. For soup, the meat is then cut into small pieces or slices.

Ritual purity assumed enormous importance in the lives of the Essenes, the ancient Jewish sect which preserved and concealed the Dead Sea Scrolls. The famous Qumran community contained many cisterns and basins. According to the Jewish historian, Flavius Josephus, the Essenes bathed daily to purify themselves.

Economical Elegance

Lobster, the King of the Crustaceans, need not be reserved for special occasions. A small amount of lobster added to asparagus and celery can satisfy a craving for this popular shellfish, as suggested in the recipe given here. The savory mixture is spooned into warm patty shells, the frozen variety, which are prepared in a remarkably easy fashion. A crisp green salad and a simple dessert of fresh fruit is all that is needed to round out this springtime dinner menu.

Asparagus Newburgh

- 1 package frozen patty shells
- ¾ cup cooked lobster
- 6 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 2½ cups milk
- 2 egg yolks
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 pound cooked asparagus
- 1 cup cooked celery

Prepare patty shells according to package directions. In a large skillet saute lobster in 3 tablespoons butter for about 3 minutes. Push lobster to one side of skillet; melt remaining butter and blend in flour and seasonings. Gradually add milk, stir in lobster and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Pour small amount of sauce into egg yolks. Stir and return to sauce. Add lemon juice, asparagus and celery, which have been cut in small pieces. Stir thoroughly and spoon into warm patty shells.

Oven-Barbecued Short Ribs

(Serves 4)

- 2 lbs. beef short ribs
- ½ cup California Burgundy, Claret or other red dinner wine
- 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- Dash of cayenne pepper

Trim some fat from short ribs, rub hot skillet with it. Brown ribs slowly on all sides; drain off fat. Combine all other ingredients; pour over ribs. Cover tightly. Bake in slow oven (300° F.) 1½ to 2 hours, or until meat is deliciously tender.

Sauce-Y Beans And Franks

For those with gusto

- 2 cups (1 can) baked beans
- 2 cups canned apple sauce
- ¼ cup ketchup
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup dark molasses
- 1 pound frankfurters

Combine baked beans, apple sauce, ketchup, onion and molasses. Pour into 1 quart casserole. Place frankfurters on top. Cover and bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, 30 to 40 minutes. Makes 4-6 servings.

Savory Pork Chop Casserole

(Serves 4)

- 4 pork chops, cut about 1 inch thick
- 1 cup uncooked long-grain white rice
- 1 medium-sized onion, chopped
- ½ green pepper, chopped
- 2 pimientos, chopped
- 1 (10½-oz.) can condensed consomme
- ½ cup California Sauterne or other white dinner wine
- Pinch each of thyme and marjoram
- Salt and pepper

Trim excess fat from pork chops. Heat a large, heavy skillet; grease with a bit of fat from the chops; brown chops slowly on both sides. While chops are browning, mix rice, onion, green pepper and pimientos; spread in the bottom of a 2-quart casserole. Arrange browned chops on top of rice mixture. Mix consomme and wine; add water to make 2 cups liquid; season with thyme, marjoram, salt and pepper. Heat this liquid to boiling; pour over chops and rice. Cover and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. Uncover; remove chops and stir rice mixture gently with a fork; replace chops. Cover and continue baking about 30 minutes longer, or until chops are tender, and rice has absorbed all the liquid, turning chops occasionally.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If you put them in a buttered muffin tin before baking, baked apples will keep their shape.

Dip bananas is lemon juice after peeling them to keep them from getting dark.

Morale-booster for a sick room is a gay floral-printed sheet put on top of the blankets instead of a regular bedspread.

New on the market is an anti-run spray for nylon hose. A thorough spraying after each washing prevents possible runs.

If you're on an all-day shopping expedition, you'll find that a little time spent relaxing in a restroom with your shoes off will pay dividends in recharging your energies.

Your cake will have no air holes if you drop the pan on the table several times, from a height of three or four inches, immediately after putting batter in.

Cocktails And Starters

Apple Zing: Combine 1 quart apple juice, 6 tablespoons lemon juice and ¼ cup grenadine. Chill. Makes 6 servings.

Hot Tingler

- 2 cups apple juice
- 2 cups tomato juice
- 12 whole cloves

Hot Mulled Apple Juice: Combine 1 quart apple juice, one 2-inch cinnamon stick broken in pieces, 4 whole cloves and ½ cup sugar. Bring to boiling point and cover; simmer 10 minutes. Strain. Serve hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

The newest thing in weed killers is an old weapon — fire. An agricultural research center at Plainview, Tex, is experimenting with a "flame cultivator" — a huge spiderlike machine which spouts fire through metallic lines into low-lying weeds without damaging the soil or crops.

W. Va. Wood Utilization Providing New Industries

ELKINS — With the decline of employment in the coal industry, West Virginia is turning to other industries to fill the economic void. Emphasis is being placed on wood utilization, and efforts are being exerted to entice furniture and other wood products manufacturers to locate in the State.

According to Donald L. Fogus, Area Extension Forestry Specialist at West Virginia University, West Virginia is one of the leading hardwood producers in the nation, with many favorable factors which enables it to compete with other hardwood manufacturing states. Among them are the wood supply, labor, wage rates, and geographical location.

Dimension plants are one of the secrets of a good wood utilization program in West Virginia. There operations create uses for low-grade wood, and make manufacturing of selected wood products more profitable.

A new operation — the only one of its kind in the Mountain State, is the Crawmer Bolt Mill, located just outside of Elkins.

A bolter mill is native to New England. Its importance to the industry is in the type of product it manufacturers, and the fact that it makes use of off-size logs which are too good for pulpwood purposes, and not long enough for sawmill lumber.

Crawmer Bolt Mill produces hardwood bolts — three or four inches square and four to five feet long. These are shipped to finishing mills to be turned or shaped into table legs, bed posts, or other furniture pieces. The bolter can accomodate logs up to 10 inches in diameter.

The Crawmer operation began last November. In March is was employing six to seven workers, but the operation can expand to employ three to four times that number.

One sawmill that somewhat typifies a West Virginia sawmill operation is the Mullenax Lumber Company in Parsons, owned by Elmer Mullenax and operated by himself and two sons, Delton and Franklin.

From a one-man steam operation in 1927, this mill has developed into the largest operation in Tucker county.

Most of the lumber sawed here is shipped for further processing to other areas of the country. The mill employes 35 workers which includes the timber cutters. It produces an aveage of 10,000 board feet of lumber a day, and last year produced over 1.5 million board feet.

The Mullenax Lumber Mill also produces all types of frame material and all grades of paneling and other materials necessary for building a home. Material for the A-frame cottages seen around the Mountain State is being produced here.

Almost 95 per cent of the logs for the mill come from the National Forest which spreads over two-thirds of Tucker County. Ninety-five per cent of production is hardwood, and the remaining five per cent is softwood which is generally sold locally.

The Kingsford Charcoal plant, only a few blocks away, uses most of the waste material from this mill.

The sawmill has the only dry kiln in Tucker county, is fully automatic, and has a capacity of 50,000 board feet. Electricity powers all the equipment, including a circular saw, planer, and dry kiln machinery.

The mill uses a debarker and chipper. Chips cut from discarded slabs are loaded into railroad cars and shipped as pulpwood for paper manufacturing.

Keyser Minister Resigns, Gets New Position

KEYSER — Rev. Donald D. Anderson, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church since June 1, 1952, has tendered his resignation effective June 16 to become assistant to the president of the Western Pennsylvania-West Virginia Synod.

By action of the Executive Board he was elected and called to the post with primary responsibilities including camping and youth work, and will be located in Pittsburgh.

A meeting of the local congregation will be held on May 5 and action will be taken on the resignation and a pulpit committee named.

A native of Morgantown, Rev. Mr. Anderson attended high school there and graduated from West Virginia University in 1949 with an AB degree in philosophy.

He served in the Navy during World War II and graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg in 1952 having been ordained May 20 that year.

Rev. Mr. Anderson served on many Lutheran committees and held major offices in the Conference and West Virginia Synod before its merger with Western Pennsylvania.

W.Va. Centennial Postage Stamp Design Unveiled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The design of a stamp commemorating West Virginia's 100th anniversary of statehood was unveiled Wednesday by Postmaster General J. Edward Day in a ceremony attended by Gov. W. W. Barron and the state's congressional delegation.

The stamp points up a year-long series of fairs, festivals, exhibits and other activities and will be issued June 20 in Wheeling, the State's first capitol.

President Abraham Lincoln, on April 20, 1863, proclaimed West Virginia a state in a "war born measure" to be effective 60 days later.

The stamp includes a state map ordered in red and a picture of the state capital against a green background.

Liquor-Producing Plant Is Planned At Harpers Ferry

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The first liquor-producing plant in West Virginia may be established in historic Harpers Ferry.

State Commerce Commissioner Hulett Smith said it would be an entirely new facility operated by a new company which is in the process of being formed. Smith emphasized that the plant is still in the planning stage.

Smith said it would not be a distillery but a rectification plant which starts its liquor-producing process with natural spirits. The commissioner said because of this, there will be no odor. Well-water would be used in the process, he said.

He said only about five people would be initially employed at the plant but all bottles will be purchased from the Owens-Illinois Plant in Fairmont.

Allegany Community College Names Two Full Professors To Faculty

The addition of two full-time professors to the faculty of Allegany Community College for the 1963-64 term was approved at a meeting of the college's board of trustees Tuesday.

They are Dr. Earl S. McColley, LaVale, and Dr. Myron Lee Simpson, Bedford Road, who currently are teaching on a part-time basis.

Dr. McColley will teach chemistry and coordinate the chemical technology curriculum with local industries. He is director of the production laboratory at Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company.

He received his bachelor and master degrees from Brown University, and his doctorate from Boston University. Dr. McColley also attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Prior to coming here with the Celanese, he taught chemistry at Boston University, Pennsylvania State College, Charlotte (N. C.) College and on the high school level.

Dr. Simpson, a native of Cumberland, will teach zoology and biology. He was largely responsible in setting up the biology laboratory at the college. Prior to receiving his doctorate from Johns Hopkins University, he attended American University, the University of Cincinnati and the Medical College of Virginia.

His teaching background includes American University, Massanutten Military Academy, Johns Hopkins, Gettysburg College, Westminster College and Washington College. He later headed the biology department at Gettysburg.

The board of trustees adopted a sick leave policy for the college faculty. It is based on the policy now in effect in the Allegany County school system. Approval also was given to a recommendation that faculty members be permitted to take courses without a tuition charge.

Also approved was a request by the recently-organized Circle K Club to operate dances on Saturday nights at the college. The project will start on Saturday, May 11, and will be for students and those over 17 years of age or else at least a junior in high school.

Plan Strike

LONDON (UPI)—Rail union leaders met last week and announced they are going ahead with plans for a three-day strike against the British Railway System "before May 10." The strike will protest a reorganization plan that would eliminate 70,000 jobs.

About 45 per cent of Rhode Island's labor force is employed in manufacturing as compared with about 24 per cent of the U. S. as a whole.

Cardinals Grab National League Lead With 4-3 Win Over Giants

Simmons Posts Third Triumph For St. Louis

Groat's Double Sparks Four-Run Rally In Sixth

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)Lefty Curt Simmons, although battered for five doubles, pitched the St. Louis Cardinals into sole possession of first place in the National League Wednesday with a 4-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Dick Groat started the Cards toward their fourth straight win by doubling home two tallies to spark a four-run blast against loser Billy Pierce in the sixth inning.

It marked the second straight defeat for the veteran southpaw (1-2) at Candlestick Park where he had rolled to 14 consecutive wins without a setback.

Tough In Clutch

Simmons, the former Philadelphia Phillies Whiz Kid, recorded his third win in as many route - going performances. He gave up a total of nine hits but was tough in the clutch. After Jose Pagan singled off Simmons with one out in the ninth inning, he made Ed Bailey line to first baseman Bill White for a game-ending double play.

Simmons also struck out Pierce twice to retire the side with a man on third.

Cards Rout Pierce

The Cards routed Pierce with a four-hit attack in the sixth. After Julian Javier had singled and Curt Flood walked, Groat came up with two strikeouts on his record and sent both runners across by doubling to left center. White followed by cracking another single to score Groat and Pierce left for the showers after George Altman's single brought across the Cardinal first baseman.

Rookie Jose Cardenal hit a pinch two - run single for San Francisco in its half of the sixth, then was thrown out stealing to end the rally.

Mets Register First Shutout

Carl Willey Stops Chicago Cubs, 2-0

CHICAGO (UPI) — Casey Stengel's New York Mets scored their first shutout of the season Wednesday, with a 3-hit, 2-0 decision by Carl Willey over the Chicago Cubs.

Rookie Ron Hunt hit his first major league home run for the second score off Cubs starter Bob Buhl to hand him his second defeat. Consecutive singles by Frank Thomas, rookie Eddie Kranepool and Choo-Choo Coleman accounted for the first run.

Buhl, who worked six innings, gave up six hits and the two runs boosted his earned run average from 0.36 to 0.87. Reliever Paul Toth held the Mets hitless for three frames.

The Mets, winning their fifth of the last six games after a season opening 8-game losing streak, gave Willey valuable help with three double plays.

As a result, the Cubs, who drew only one walk off Willey, left only one man on base. Willey had five strikeouts enroute to his first win of the year. It was the third time the Cubs have been shutout in 15 games.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The last two horses which came close to winning the Triple Crown were Carry Back in 1961 and Tim Tam in 1958. But each sustained injuries in the Belmont Stakes after winning the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

SAFE BY AN ARMLENGTH — Leftfielder George Alusik, of the Kansas City Athletics, dives safely into third base ahead of Baltimore Oriole Al Smith's throw from right field to third baseman Brooks Robinson. The play came in the second inning on second baseman Jerry Lumpe's single. Kansas City loaded the bases in the inning, but Alusik failed to score. U.S. Gets Two Pan-Am Games Gold Medals

Barbara McAlister, Joseph Puleo Win

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — Diving star Barbara McAlister and weightlifter Joseph Puleo gave the United States a pair of gold medal victories in the Pan-American Games Wednesday but U.S. tennis stars Darlene Hard and Carole Caldwell both were beaten in women's tennis.

Miss McAlister, a 21-year-old secretary from Phoenix, Ariz., came from behind to score a major upset as she took the women's three-meter springboard diving crown.

Puleo, of York, Pa., matched that medal with one in middleweight weightlifting as he hoisted a total of 400 kilograms (880 pounds) in three lifts. And the U.S. baseball team moved to the top of that competition with a 13-3 victory over Brazil as pacemaking Cuba was upset.

But Miss Hard, former U.S. women's tennis champion from Los Angeles who had been expected to reach the finals, was beaten in the semifinals of women's singles by Yola Ramirez of Mexico, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Puleo, a 20-year-old junior college student born in Detroit, took the middlweight class crown in weightlifting by lifting 291.5 pounds with a clean-and-jerk lift, 264 pounds with a snatch, and 324.5 pounds with a military press. His gold medal was the 13th won by the U.S. team.

Miss McAlister's come-from-behind victory gave the U.S. its 12th gold medal in five days but another slipped away when Thomas Dinsley of Canada pulled off an equally stunning upset to win the men's springboard title. Favored Dick Gilbert of Lancaster, Pa., finished second and schoolboy Ken Stitzberger of River Forest, Ill., was third.

The American baseball victory on five-hit pitching by Doug Mills of the University of Illinois, coupled with Mexico's unexpected 5-2 triumph over Cuba's title favorites, gave the Yanks a lead in the double round-robin tournament. The U.S. now has a 3-1 record, Cuba 2-1.

James Rossi, 27-year-old salesman from Chicago, added another silver medal to the mounting U.S. total by finishing second to Roger Gibon of Trinidad in the 1,000 meter scratch cycle race. Edgardo Molinaroli of Argentina was third.

Liston-Patterson Match Set For Las Vegas June 27

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Arrangements were completed here Wednesday for heavyweight champion Sonny Liston's return match with Floyd Patterson to be held in the Las Vegas Convention Center, promoter Al Bolan of Championship Sports Inc., announced.

Chairman Jim Deskin of the Nevada State Athletic Commission said Championship Sports would be granted a license to stage the bout in Nevada on June 27.

The New York organization originally had tried to work out arrangements to co-promote the bout with the Silver State Sports Club of Las Vegas which for the past several years had been promoting bouts at the convention center.

But when no agreement could be worked out for the co-promotion, Deskin agreed to license Championship Sports to stage the bout. Promoters Mel Greb and Jack Doyle of the Silver State organization announced they would cooperate with the promotion as individuals.

Bolan said the terms for the bout here would be the same as those stipulated in the original contract which called for each of the participants to receive 30 per cent of both the live gate and the closed circuit television revenues, with Championship Sports footing the cost of the promotion out of its 40 per cent of the total revenues.

The Convention Center can seat only slightly more than 8,000 persons but Bolan said the bout would be carried on closed circuit television.

Bolan and Deskin previously had conferred earlier this week in New York and at that time Bolan had indicated that if the fight went to Las Vegas, the modernistic Convention Center would be scaled for a live gate of $250,000.

If Championship Sports follows its initial outline, the first two ringside rows would sell at $500 a seat.

Tigers' Kaline Homers To End 15-Inning Game

Detroit Beats LA In 4-3 Marathon

DETROIT (AP)—Al Kaline hit a wrong-field home run into the right field seats and broke up a 15-inning marathon as the Detroit Tigers edged the Los Angeles Angels 4-3 Wednesday.

Kaline's blow just over leaping Leon Wagner's out-stretched glove landed in the first row of seats. It came off Eli Grba, the eighth Angel pitcher, and ended a 4 hour, 15 minute game watched by 1,575 fans shivering in 47-degree cold.

Kaline tied the game at 2-2 with a two-run double in the seventh and the game was unknotted only briefly in the 12th when Lee Thomas dumped a single to left and lifted the Angels into a 3-2 lead.

But the Tigers tied it in the bottom of the 12th on Coot Veal's pinch single with two out. Veal was the first Tiger pinch hitter to deliver in 18 at bats this season.

The Tigers threw 20 players into the game and the Angels employed 19.

NL Prexy May Ease Balk Rule

Giles To Answer Following Survey

NEW YORK (UPI) — Warren Giles, president of the National League whose call for strict enforcement of the balk rule this season has produced a storm of criticism, said Wednesday he may bow to protests and move to ease the rule.

"It all depends on a survey I am taking," Giles said by telephone from his headquarters in Cincinnati. "I should have the answer in two or three days."

Since the National League season opened, the league umpires have been paying strict attention to playing rule 8.05, which says that a pitcher must come to a full one-second pause in his pitching motion when he is delivering the ball with runners on base.

The resultant wave of balk calls has brought forth numerous protests, with managers Casey Stengel of the New York Mets and Johnny Keane of the St. Louis Cardinals and General Manager Paul Richards of the Houston Colts the most vocal objectors.

"I am questioning managers, pitching coaches, and players and am reviewing statistics," Giles said. "If I find that less rigid enforcement of the balk rule is what is desired, I would have to consider what steps to take.

"There are two definite sides to this argument," he continued. "There are those who feel that strict enforcement is called for, others who feel it should be liberalized.

"Personally, I am in favor of enforcing rules as they are written," Giles said. "But I have to examine the entire situation."

"At the moment," the league head concluded, "I am baffled."

The flood of balk calls in the National League has not been parallelled in the American League.

Palmer, Charles To Share Spotlight At Texas Open

Arnold Will Vie For Fourth Win In Succession

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Bob Charles, a one-time Christchurch, New Zealand bank clerk who swings from the port side, stole some of the spotlight Wednesday night on the eve of Arnold Palmer's bid for a fourth successive Texas Opengolf tournament crown.

Charles' presence in the field for the $30,000 tourney, granddaddy of all the PGA tour competitions, put back some of the luster lost when Masters champion Jack Nicklaus and South Africa's Gary Player decided to pass up the affair. They ran one-two in money winnings.

The 27-year-old Charles became the toast of the world's southpaws last Sunday when he won the $10,000 first prize in the Houston Golf Classic to become the first left-hander in history to win a PGA tour title.

Charles, who said he would have to work seven years at his old bank job to make as much money as he did in four days at Houston, is certain to attract a sizeable portion of the gallery, which will be interested in seeing if the New Zealander's zoom to fame will be short-lived.

But, bulk of the attention seems sure to be drawn to Palmer, who started his fabulous string of Texas Open conquests in 1960 when the tournament was played at the Fort Sam Houston golf course.

He continued his brilliant play in 1961 and 1962 when the tourney moved to Oak Hills Country Club, site of this year's 72-hole grind, with winning scores of 270 and 273.

Thursday, he'll have the advantage of an early tee off time as he launches his bid for an unprecedented fourth in a row.

Palmer has won three tournaments so far this year—at Los Angeles, Phoenix and Pensacola—and has done well enough in others to rank fourth among the money winners with $25,025 banked away.

The top pros got a competitive tour of the course Wednesday in a $3,500 pro-amateur warmup.

Pirates Beat Phils, Jump Into Second

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Roberto Clemente, benched for two games for a hitting slump, came back Wednesday night and broke a seventh-inning tie with a two-run double to carry the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and into second place in the National League.

Clemente, who tripled the first time up and then walked twice, greeted reliefer Johnny Klippstein with a smash down the left-score Dick Schofield and Ted Savage and salt away Bob Friend's third win of the year.

Klippstein replaced starter Chris Short who gave up at hree-run homer to Bob Bailey, which put the Pirates ahead 4-2 in the fourth.

Ft. Ashby Beats Capon Bridge, 2-1

Fort Ashby High School won its first baseball game in six outings yesterday by nosing out Capon Bridge, 2-1, at Capon Bridge. The losers have won no games in three starts.

Both of Fort Ashby's runs came in the third inning after Gary Mangus singled and Tim Beverlin got a base after being hit by a pitched ball. They pulled a double steal, then both came home on a single by Dale Weaver with two out.

Capon Bridge's pitcher, Denny Brill, almost tied up the game with two out in the bottom of the seventh when he tried to stretch a hard-hit ball into a home run. He was called out in a close play at the plate to end the game.

Ronnie Sisk got credit for the win.

Altoona Beats Catamounts, 1-0, In First Game

Potomac Wins Nightcap, 2-1, In 12 Innings

Frostburg State Teachers College, behind the four-hit pitching of righthander Gene Wood, scored a 3-1 triumph over the West Virginia University Freshmen yesterday afternoon at Morgantown.

Potomac State broke even in a pair of pitching duels at Keyser's Stayman Field. The Catamounts lost the opener to Altoona Campus, 1-0, and went 12 innings in the nightcap to edge the Pennsylvanians, 2-1.

A two-run home run by John Nussear in the fourth inning proved to be the margain of victory for the Frostburg Bobcats, who picked up their fourth win in nine starts.

Drives In Broadwater

Nussear's homer, a drive to deep leftfield, drove in Clyde Broadwater who had singled. In the first inning. Broadwater knocked in Denny Moore with the first run of the game.

The WVU yearlings obtained their only tally in the ninth inning, when pitcher Kovack crossed the plate on Roy Beard's error.

Two of the four hits surrendered by Wood were a double and triple by McCullough, the WVU first baseman. In each instance, however, Wood bore down and McCullough was left stranded. Wood, who walked three and struck out five, registered his second win without a loss.

Kovack Goes Route

Kovack went the distance for the Freshmen and allowed six hits, walked six and fanned ten.

Broadwater and George Lauder each had a pair of singles for Frostburg. Nussear's home run and a single by Hank Winner were the other Bobcat safeties.

Jim Hildreth, Potomac State's hardluck southpaw who has worked 23 consecutive innings without getting a single run behind him, was the victim of poor support again yesterday.

He toiled the first six innings of the opening game and gave up only three hits. The visitors scored their only run off him in the fourth when Young singled, reached second on an error, third or a fielder's choice, and came home on Larry Park's sacrifice fly.

Altoona's Hess, also a southpaw, pitched brilliantly in picking up the win. After John Clay singled in the second inning for PSC, Hess retired 15 men in a row before Sonny Mims touched him for a single in the seventh.

Hess Whiffs Nine

Hess didn't walk a batter, issued no walks and struck out nine.

Tom Ridenour, who pitched the final inning of the opener, worked the 11th and 12th frames of the nightcap and set down all six men he faced to get the win.

With two down in the bottom of the 12th, Grant Mullan whacked his first pitch for a single to bring Mike Stellabotte home with the tie-breaking tally. Stellabotte had walked and moved to second when Clay was hit by a pitched ball.

The doubleheader split left Potomac State with a record of three wins, five losses and one tie.

Orlando Pena Hurls Shutout

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Kansas City Athletics shut out the Baltimore Orioles, 5-0 Wednesday night behind the nine-hit pitching of Orlando Pena and took over first place in the American League.

Pena, who registered his third straight victory without a defeat, was provided with all the margin he needed when Wayne Causey singled home Haywood Sullivan with Kansas City's first run in the seventh inning.

Until then, Pena and Mike McCormick had engaged in a scoreless duel although the former Giant southpaw frequently was in trouble.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Woody Held's two-run homer gave the Cleveland Indians a 2-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday night behind the combined four-hit pitching of Gary Bell and Jim Grant.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Veteran Warren Spahn weathered a six-inning uprising Wednesday night in pitching the Milwaukee Braves to a 4-3 victory and extending the Houston Colts' losing streak to five games.

Sport Talk with Troxell by Ted

A FULL-TIME PHYSICAL EDUCATION teacher from Frederick is doing a terrific job of promoting our neighboring city to the east through what he considers "just a hobby."

Jack Griffin, a serious young man who started out in the direction of a professional art career before switching to physical education, teaches at West Frederick Junior High School.

As a "sideline," he coaches teams representing the Frederick Track and Field Club, and has developed one of the finest women's track teams in the country from the material which first comes his way at West Frederick Junior High.

A native of Frederick, Jack attended Maryland Art Institute in Baltimore for four years, then decided to enroll at New York University where he obtained his degree in physical education.

AT NYU, JACK WAS A MEMBER of the varsity basketball, swimming and track teams, but it was the latter sport that commanded most of his concentration.

Understandably, the people of Frederick are quite happy that Griffin decided to forego the application of his art training in favor of physical education.

The women's team of the Frederick Track and Field Club has been competing in top meets all over the country the past few years, and has been faring quite well.

In fact, Jack's prize proteges — sprinter Debbie Thompson and hurdler Tammy Davis—have set national records in their specialties, although they're both only sophomores in high school.

Debbie and Tammy, along with Mary Lawson and Cheryl Hoy, form Griffin's 40-yard relay team which holds the South Atlantic AAU Junior Olympics record.

THESE FOUR GIRLS WERE in Cumberland last Friday to help their coach in his demonstrations before the Allegany County physical education teachers, in connection with the county-wide teachers' Professional Day at Allegany High School.

Griffin acted as consultant at the departmental meeting held in one of the Allegany classrooms, and provided the county physical education instructors with a wealth of valuable first-hand information about physical fitness, in general, and track, in particular.

Afterwards, everyone moved outside to the Allegany practice field to see the end results of "Professor" Griffin's teaching and training.

Miss Thompson, who at 15 holds the U.S. women's indoor record for the 60-yard dash of 6.7 seconds, ran an exhibition 50-yard dash against Mary Lawson and covered the distance in six seconds flat.

THE WORLD RECORD FOR THAT event is 5.7 seconds, and Griffin explained that Debbie's time was particularly good considering she was running on an ordinary dirt field, and not the customary cinder track.

Miss Davis, who has the American record for the 50-yard low hurdles of 6.9 seconds, amazed her coach when she came through with a 6.95 clocking in her exhibition against Cheryl Hoy.

The four girls did not run as a relay team, but coach Griffin put them through their paces in passing the baton, a strategic part of relay competition.

Bob Pence, county supervisor of physical education who was in charge of the program, referred jokingly to the girls' performances as an "Olympic tryout."

However, in all probability the girls will be competing in the 1964 Olympics next year in Tokyo. They plan to participate in the Olympic tryouts, and it's a very good bet they'll make it.

Stiff competition is old stuff to the Frederick Track and Field Club. The girls have appeared in Madison Square Garden no less than 11 times, and have traveled all the way to Los Angeles to compete in a meet.

THEIR NEXT ENGAGEMENT is set for this Saturday, when they take part in the annual Penn Relays at Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

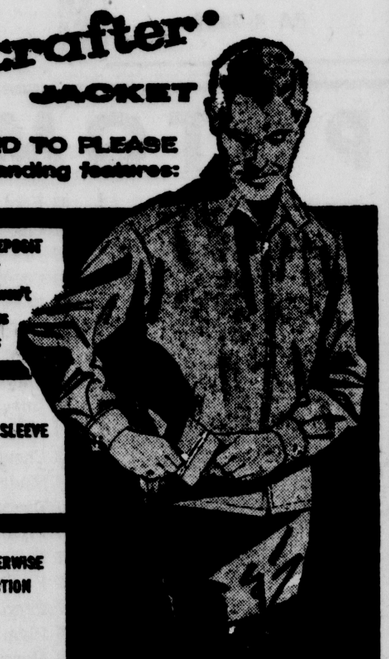

Then on May 4, Griffin's team is host to seven other strong metropolitan women's teams as a special feature of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League meet at Frederick.

Jack Griffin and the four girls scored quite a hit with the Allegany County physical education teachers here last week. They were all most personable, and of course impressed everyone with their demonstrations of skill, knowledge and superb physical fitness.

Women's track and field is rapidly rising to prominence as a major sport in this country. And there are a number of Cumberlanders who will now be keeping an eye on the big meets to see how the former art student and his "girls" are doing.

White Sox Top Yankees, 6-4, In 12 Innings

Hershberger Gets Tie-Breaking Hit

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Hershberger, who entered the game as a ninth-inning defensive replacement, singled home two runs with two out in the 12th inning Wednesday to give the Chicago White Sox a 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

Relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, who saw the Yankees score the tying run in the ninth inning when one of his dancing knucklers eluded catcher J. C. Martin with a runner on third base, shut out New York for the last 3 1-3 innings to receive credit for his first win of the season. Wilhelm now has pitched 14 1-3 innings without permitting a run this season.

Wilhelm started the winning rally with a slow-speed grounder through the right side of the Yankee infield leading off the 12th. He moved to second on a sacrifice, to third on Nellie Fox' short single, and both scored on Hershberger's single off Bill Kunkel, the seventh Yankee pitcher. Fox was moved to second base on the throw to home following his single.

The White Sox built up an early four-run lead, with the help of Floyd Robinson's two - run double and an error by right fielder Roger Maris, and appeared en route to an easy victory behind Juan Pizarro.

But the Yankees scored two runs in the seventh on a walk and doubles by Jack Reed and Harry Bright, and then tied the score in the ninth.

Pizarro was only one out away from victory when left fielder Dave Nicholson misplayed successive fly balls by Elston Howard and Reed into a double and a triple. That brought Wilhelm out of the bullpen to pitch to Bright. Wilhelm's second pitch, a knuckler, was a strike that Bright missed and then went through Martin for a passed ball.

Second Degree Murder Ruled In Jury Verdict

Judges Sentence Mrs. Bennett To 18 Years In State Institution

Mrs. Garnette Mae Bennett, 40, formerly of 300 Willowbrook Road, was sentenced to a maximum 18 years in the Maryland Institution for Women at Jessups yesterday afternoon after a jury in Allegany County Circuit Court found her guilty of second degree murder in the shotgun slaying of her husband, Moses Sylvester Bennett, 43, on January 31, 1963.

The jury of 10 men and two women returned its verdict after about one hour and 50 minutes of deliberation. The 12 jurors retired to the jury room about 1:45 p. m. after having been taken in a body by court attaches to the private dining room of a local restaurant. The jurors returned to the court room about 3:35 p. m.

There were a few tense moments in the crowded but quiet court room as the jury awaited the arrival of the three judges who presided at the trial, Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris, Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey and Associate Judge Stuart F. Hamill.

Weeps Bitterly

Mrs. Bennett began weeping bitterly when H. Wayne George, foreman of the jury, announced that the verdict was guilty of second degree murder.

Charles K. McDonald, deputy clerk of Circuit Court, then polled the 10 men and two women individually after John C. Sullivan, defense attorney, moved for such action. Each juror said "Yes sir" when Mr. McDonald asked him or her if the verdict was guilty of second degree murder.

Other jurors were Martha Grindle, Zelda Valentine, Harry T. Warnick, William E. Cessna, Francis L. Nolan, G. Howard Hetzel, Herman J. Miller, William C. Wilson, James T. Lynch, Ernest F. Davis and John C. Kelly.

The three judges then retired to chambers for about 10 minutes to confer about sentencing in the case.

Sentenced By Cobey

When they returned Judge Cobey spoke for the three judges. When he asked if Mrs. Bennett had anything to say before her sentence was passed, Mr. Sullivan asked that the judges take into consideration the nearly 15 months she already has served. Mrs. Bennett has been in custody ever since the shooting January 31, 1962.

Judge Cobey then imposed the maximum sentence for second degree murder of 18 years in the Maryland Institution for Women.

That ended the three-day second trial for the 40-year-old mother of four children, all of whom testified for the state at the trial.

At her first trial, which also took three days, she was found guilty of first degree murder without capital punishment. That was the second of five possible verdicts. As a result of that verdict the judges were required to sentence her to a life sentence in the Maryland Institution for Women.

Granted New Trial

However, the Maryland Court of Appeals eventually granted Mrs. Bennett a new trial, wiping out the earlier conviction.

Yesterday's verdict was the third of five possible. Second degree murder is defined as an unlawful killing with malice but without premeditation. First degree murder is willful, deliberate and premeditated.

The possible verdicts included first degree, first degree without capital punishment, second degree, manslaughter and not guilty.

The trial opened Monday morning with the selection of a jury. Eight jurors were selected from the regular panel of 24 jurors and the other four came from among 17 talesmen summoned in off the street.

State's Attorney James S. Getty and his deputy, Donald W. Mason, presented their case for the state Monday afternoon. These witnesses showed that Mrs. Bennett shot her husband with a 16-gauge shotgun about 9 a. m. January 31, 1962, in the kitchen of their home during an argument which followed by two days her filing of a suit for divorce in Circuit Court.

Sons Testify

Two sons of Mrs. Bennett testified that they showed their mother how to fire the 16-gauge shotgun several days before the killing when she said she wanted to kill a "big rat."

Mr. Sullivan and Simon F. Reilly, the defense attorneys called 11 witnesses to the stand Tuesday. Several of these witnesses said they had seen bruises on Mrs. Bennett which she said had been inflicted by her husband during arguments.

Mrs. Bennett herself testified that she fired the shotgun when her husband came to the kitchen door holding a hunting knife in his right hand and with what she described as a "hateful stare" on his face.

After the defense rested, the state called seven more rebuttal witnesses, the last of whom was a local man who admitted that he had had an affair with Mrs. Bennett back about 1956, then started seeing her again in the fall of 1960.

Mr. Mason began the closing argument late Tuesday afternoon

Parent-Child Study Session Set For May 8

Dr. Kurtz Will Serve As Consultant

The Allegany County Parent-Child Study Program will conclude its 1962-63 program with a general meeting for parents, leaders, principals and staff members on Wednesday, May 8, according to Homer S. Higgins, county supervisor of pupil personnel.

Dr. John Kurtz of the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland will serve as consultant. The program will run from 9:30 a. m. until 1:30 p. m. at Cresaptown School with a break for lunch at 11:30 a. m.

Dr. Kurtz will spend the morning tieing together the major concepts of the physical area as developed in the program this year. He will propose goals for 1963-64 before the close of the meeting.

Mr. Higgins is asking the principal of each school in the county to let him know by May 2 the number attending from his school area.

Allegany County's program is called unique by the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland and the State Department of Education. This is one of the few counties in the state which has been successful with this type of program, according to Mr. Higgins.

Phone Service Interrupted

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — The strike - bound General Telephone Co. of the Southeast reported further "manmade" cable troubles Wednesday.

Company vice president and district manager W. N. Scholl said some one "sawed into" a 5-pair cable at near Harpers Ferry Tuesday night, interrupting service there and between the town and Frederick, Md. Scholl said the damage, which "looked like it could have been done with a hacksaw," was repaired Wednesday.

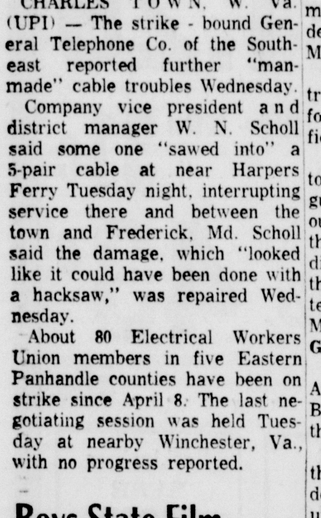

About 80 Electrical Workers Union members in five Eastern Panhandle counties have been on strike since April 8. The last negotiating session was held Tuesday at nearby Winchester, Va., with no progress reported.

Typhoid Shots Offered By Health Dept.

Deep Creek Visitors Should Get Immunity

Persons who plan to visit the Deep Creek Lake area this summer are urged to receive typhoid immunization shots, according to Dr. Martin M. Rothstein, Allegany County health officer.

Dr. Rothstein said the typhoid shots are being urged because typhoid was reported recently in the Pittsburgh area, and many persons from that section are regular visitors to the Garrett County recreation area.

The typhoid shots are administered free of charge by the Allegany County Health Department every Wednesday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. No immunization shots are administered in the afternoon at the health department.

Dr. Rothstein also offered several suggestions to persons, especially campers, on how they can avoid contacting typhoid.

He said persons should be careful about what food and water they eat and drink because these are two agents which transmit typhoid germs. Persons should drink water from only approved sources.

Flies also carry the disease and persons should maintain good sanitary conditions and see that all garbage is disposed of quickly and properly.

Typhoid was spread to the Pittsburgh area by a resident from that section who was in Zarmatt, Switzerland, recently when an outbreak of the disease was reported there.

Health officials said the control of typhoid fever has been through good sanitation rather than immunization.

Students Get Advice From Science Prof

Dr. Raymond R. Myers, research professor of chemistry at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa. yesterday afternoon completed a three-day visit to Allegany County during which he offered counseling advice to some 400 juniors and seniors interested in careers in chemistry.

This was the fourth successive year that such a program was arranged through the cooperation of the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society.

A specialist in the fields of rheology and inorganic chemistry, Dr. Myers has been research professor of chemistry at Lehigh since 1961. Before coming to Lehigh he spent several years in research laboratories of private industries. He received his bachelor of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from Lehigh University and his master of science degree from the University of Tennessee.

While in Allegany County, Dr. Myers visited Allegany, Fort Hill, LaSalle, Girls Central, Ursuline Academy, Bruce, St. Peter's, Valley, Beall and Mt. Savage high schools.

Dr. Myers ended his three-day visit with a recapitulation session yesterday afternoon at the Board of Education office. Meeting with him were Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer, Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools; Dr. James S. Elmslie, head of the Western Maryland Section, and Akbar Brinsmade, chairman of the section's education committee.

Local Woman Indicted By Jury

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Mary Sue Bedinger, former Cumberland teller, was indicted Tuesday in U. S. District Court on charges of embezzling funds from the First-Second National Bank and Trust Co.

Firemen, Postman Save House

LaVale Volunteer Firemen answered calls to two fires yesterday afternoon, one of which caused minor damage to a residence on National Highway.

Firemen received a call about 2 p.m. to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kelly, 1044 National Highway, but the blaze already had been brought under control by a mail truck driver.

George W. Lovenstein, a LaVale mail man, was near the Kelly residence when Mrs. Kelly ran out of the dwelling and told him her house was on fire. Mr. Lovenstein used a garden hose to bring the fire under control.

Firemen said the blaze was confined to the basement and living room. They estimated damages at several hundred dollars. It is believed the fire was caused by defective wiring.

The fire company responded with six men and two pieces of equipment and were at the scene 55 minutes. Corriganville Fire Company also assisted with two pieces of equipment and seven men.

Earlier in the afternoon, the LaVale unit extinguished a brush fire along the B&O Railroad tracks in Locust Grove.

The alarm was received at 1:15 p.m. and approximately a half an acre was burned. Five firemen were at the scene 45 minutes.

Union Signs With Firestone

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A two-year contract providing a package valued at 24 to 25 cents an hour for workers was signed Wednesday by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., and the United Rubber Workers Union.

Indications were the pact might provide a pattern for settlement of negotiations now in progress between the union and the B. F. Goodrich Co., and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

The wage package provides for an increase June 10, 1963, and on May 4, 1964, or June 8, 1964. It consists of across-the-board increases at all plants, plus additional boosts at some plants for skilled trades workers, hour-paid and night shift employes.

The agreement also provides an increase in the amount and duration of supplemental unemployment benefits, including payment for short work weeks. One provision guarantees an injured worker supplemental payments which, with state benefits, will give him 80 per cent of his average earnings for a standard work week.

Youth Government Meets At Annapolis Today

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Some 200 Maryland youths move into the historic State House Thursday for their version of how a state government ought to run.

They're delegates to the YMCA's 20th annual Youth Legislature, a three-day project at which they elect their own governor and legislative leaders and sponsor bills they've been thinking about since last fall.

One of the first orders of business, at noon Thursday, is the election of a youth governor. The candidates are John Robert Eyler of Cumberland and Charles Nelson Black of Riverdale, Prince Georges County.

Vying for presidency of the senate will be Donna Lee Babb of Hagerstown, Jacquelynn Marie Bland of Cumberland and Douglas White of Annapolis. Candidates for speaker of the house are Arnold G. Alexander of Annapolis, Linda Northcraft of Cumberland and Carole Eichelberger of Hagerstown.

Also chosen will be a clerk and chaplain for each house. Assignments have already been made to the five major committees which will screen their bills. The committees will elect their chairman.

The delegates, mostly high school juniors and seniors, are representing clubs in Hagerstown, Frederick, Elkton, Cumberland, Northeast Baltimore, North Baltimore, Dundalk, Harford County, Howard County, northwest Anne Arundel County, Annapolis, Silver Spring, Prince Georges County and Bethesda-Chevy Chase.

Frost Kills 90 Per Cent Of Peaches

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frost has killed about 90 per cent of Allegany County's peach crop, the Maryland Farm Bureau reported Wednesday, and some Washington County farmers have lost about 50 per cent of the anticipated crop.

The Weather Bureau predicted more frost for Wednesday night and temperatures were expected to drop into the 20s in Western Maryland.

Agricultural agents said the frost could add further damage to apples now in full bloom and to peaches in the petal-falling stage.

Max Buckel, Baltimore County agent, said farmers planned to light smudge pots and burn old tires in an effort to avert the devastating effects of the unseasonably cold weather.

Scattered frost was also expected on the Eastern Shore where strawberries were blossoming into full bloom.

State foresters reported that gusty winds and dry air had pushed the fire index to the critical number five stage again. Showers and cloudy skies Tuesday had dropped the index to one.

Engineers File Complete Plan For Potomac

Calls For 16 Big Reservoirs

By JOHN WOODFIELD

BALTIMORE (AP)—A report recommending development of the Potomac River Basin at a cost of more than a half billion dollars was released Wednesday by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The plan, approved by the district engineer, Baltimore district, and the division engineer, North Atlantic division, would include 16 major projects costing $393 million, of which $330 million would be reimbursed by the federal government.

Largest and most controversial of the dams recommended in the report would be the one just above Great Falls, near Seneca, Md., which would create a reservoir of more than 58,100 acres and be completed by 1977. Primary purpose of this impoundment would be to supply the water needs of the metropolitan Washington, D.C. area until the year 2010.

The over-all purpose of the plan is to provide water, flood control and recreational facilities in these areas of Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia located in the Potomac River Basin.

The recommended plan would:

1. Provide treatment of all wastes entering the basin's streams by 2010 to an average of 85 per cent effectiveness throughout the basin and 90 per cent in the metropolitan area of Washington.

2. Create a total of 418 headwater reservoirs for flood control, water supply, quality control and recreation.

3. Create 16 major reservoirs and four trunk sewers in connection with three of them.

4. Provide three small flood-control projects already authorized.

5. Provide land management and conservation measures to reduce erosion and rapid localized runoff.

50 By 1965

The report said 29 of the head water reservoirs already have been built by the Department of Agriculture and 41 flood-control and seven multi-purpose structures are planned and ready for construction. Under the timing of the proposed program, 50 headwater projects would be available by 1965, 336 more by 1985 and the remaining 32 by 2010.

Nine major reservoirs are needed immediately to meet the basin's present water requirements, the report said, but to produce a reasonably attainable construction schedule, would not be

Baltimore Sun Urges Action On River Plan

The Baltimore Sun has given editorial endorsement to the proposed $500 million development of the water resources of the Potomac River basin.

Its endorsement was carried in an editorial entitled "Potomac Problem" which appeared in the Sunday Sun. It read as follows:

"The plan for the $500 million development of the water resources of the Potomac River Basin has moved another step forward. It has been approved by Brig. Gen. John C. Dalrymple, head of the North Atlantic Division, Corps of Engineers. That is encouraging. But the plan is still far from final acceptance, and the disturbing conclusion is that answers for the problem of the Potomac's polluted and inadequate waters will be a long time coming.

"What General Dalrymple has accepted without material change is the project list and building schedule prepared after a six-year study by the Baltimore District of the Corps of Engineers. These proposals call for the early construction of nine major dams on the Potomac and its tributaries, the construction later of seven more major dams and the construction over a long period of about 418 small dams on the Potomac's headwaters. This is an imposing and costly development no doubt, but one which the study engineers say is necessary to give the river basin the water it needs and the watershed improvement it should have.

"Now what happens? The plan must go before the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors. It must be placed before top officials of the District of Columbia, of the four states within the basin and of the immediately interested federal agencies for comment. Then there must be action by the chief engineer of the Corps of Engineers and the Secretary of the Army. Finally the project must pass successfully through the full length of the congressional mill, starting with the Senate's Public Works Committee.

"That is a long and rough road with pitfalls all along the way. Yet the Potomac basin problems are urgent now, with intensive pollution of the river waters and an assured yield basis already short of ultimate requirements. Surely the time is ripe for someone in high authority in Washington to get behind the development plan and push it, or something like it, to early approval and application."
